TROOPS ARE RUSHED TO SCENE OF RIOTS

Belfast Authorities Declare Situation Well in Hand After Police-Manned Armored Cars in Action—Trenches Dug in Streets and Wholesale Arrests Made—Communists Blamed

BELFAST, Oct. 12 (AP).—British troops were hurried into Belfast today to cope with new unemployment riots following in the wake of yesterday's outburst of violence in which one man was killed and more than thirty persons were seriously wounded. A unit of the Inniskilling Fusiliers was brought in from the barracks at Holywood. The King's Royal Rifles, it was announced, will arrive on Friday.

This afternoon, after there had been considerable shooting in the Falls Road area in the western part of the city, and armored cars manned by police had gone into action, the authorities announced they had the situation well in hand.

Quiet was restored by the police by midnight last night after a stern quasi-military rule was clamped down on the city. The quiet continued throughout the early morning and forenoon until about 11 o'clock, when shooting broke out again in the Falls area west of the city.

Street cars and buses which had discontinued service last night had begun functioning during the early forenoon. Many people went out to visit the scenes of yesterday's riots out of curiosity, but police kept them on the move as well as all groups of unemployed.

WHOLESALE ARRESTS
Wholesale arrests were made during the morning. In one street alone police gathered in thirty-nine persons. It was understood plainclothes constables had mingled with the mob during the riots, noted that the participants were and bided their time.

Where trenches had been dug in the streets the occupants of nearby houses were ordered to fill them in, but police eventually did it.

Two of the seriously injured victims of yesterday's rioting were reported in a critical condition at the hospital.

A conference between the Lord Mayor and representatives of the workers began in the Town Hall at noon in the hope of finding some satisfactory basis for outdoor relief benefits.

Meantime, twenty prisoners were arraigned in court on charges of unlawful assembly and rioting. Most of them were heavily bound, and were remanded in custody until Tuesday.

CURFEW ENFORCED
Police decided to enforce a curfew at 8 o'clock tonight in the area where the most serious fighting occurred. The press association said the Belfast police believed the root of the trouble was in communism.

NOTE IN CABIN SOLVES PUZZLE

Purports to Be Confession of Murder at Grand Forks

GRAND FORKS, B.C., Oct. 12 (CP).—"He threatened my life; also Mrs. Kelly's life, so I killed him. God forgive me. I loved her. T. J. Carroll."

This note, found on a table in the cabin of Tom Carroll after neighbors had discovered him dying from a self-inflicted wound yesterday at noon, is believed by the police to clear up the mystery of the death of W. E. Kelly, auto camp proprietor at Christmas Lake, whose body was located late Monday afternoon on the Rossland Highway with two bullets in it, and of the death of Carroll the following day.

Since the death of Carroll's wife two years ago he had lived in a cabin close to the home of Kelly and the men had apparently been close friends and neighbors. Kindness had been shown Carroll. According to information obtained by the police, Carroll on Monday told Kelly he knew where to get a deer. The two drove in Kelly's car about two miles on the Rossland Highway where it was parked on the side of the road, not far from the point where Kelly's body was found. He had, it is stated, been shot from behind.

Later that day, Carroll visited in Cascade and chatted with friends before returning to his home. Not until the next day was the fate of Kelly discovered, and yesterday neighbors of Carroll hearing the report of a rifle shot, found him lying in his cabin with a discharged rifle by his side.

An inquest will be held tomorrow.

Ely Culbertson Competing Again

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP).—Ely Culbertson, who announced his retirement from championship bridge play last winter after defeating Sidney S. Lenz, in a challenge match, will return to competition. He will be a member of a team of four that will seek the Vanderbilt Trophy in the outstanding contract fixture of October 25-28. He will be paired with Oswald Jacoby, one of his foes in the Lenz match.

Lost Flying Over Pacific

LEFT to right—Tomoyoshi Ithita, Japanese newspaperman; E. Baba, Japanese aviator, and Kiyoshi Homma, Japanese newspaperman, waving a last farewell before leaving Tokyo on their nonstop flight over the Pacific to the United States. This was the last seen of the trio, for they have never been heard of since taking out over the Pacific and their fate is still a mystery.

Dual Position on University Board Cause of Losses

Machray Acted in Various Capacities in Direct Contravention of Statutes, Counsel for Commission Points Out—Board of Governors Failed to Ascertain Existence of Securities

WINNIPEG, Oct. 12 (CP).—Encumbrance by John A. Machray of a dual position on the executive and board of the University of Manitoba was greatly responsible for the $1,000,000 losses to the investment funds, and yet the board failed to take any action to rectify this breach of the University Act.

Twice, while examining witnesses, R. F. McWilliams, K.C., today made reference to this fact before a board of inquiry investigating the deficit in the university funds. Mr. McWilliams, counsel for the commission, headed by Mr. Justice W. F. A. Ferguson, Regina, charged a very serious situation had arisen when the board of governors was first formed in 1917 through failure of the newly-appointed members to ascertain the existence of bonds and securities of which they had become trustees.

DIRECT CONTRAVENTION
The bonds and securities, which comprised the greater part of the university endowment funds, were in possession of Machray & Sharpe, an investment company, which handled such affairs for the university. Machray, the senior partner, was chairman of the board of governors.

Lumber Operations Show Improvement Despite Reverses
Log Scale for Past Nine Months Was 1,150,000,000 Board Feet—Better Domestic Market Forecast Early Next Year

IN spite of severe conditions, the British Columbia lumber industry is holding its own, with the report for nine months of the present year classed as a little above expectations, at the Legislative Buildings yesterday. Log scale for September was 100,000,000 board feet, compared with 109,000,000 board feet in the corresponding month of 1931; while the scale for the nine-month period was 1,150,000,000 board feet, as against 1,600,000,000 board feet in a similar period last year. Export figures are not yet available.

The figures, it was stated, indicate that the severity of the blow caused by imposition of an increased tariff against Canadian lumber by the United States has been to some extent minimized, and that the British Columbia industry is holding up well under all the circumstances. Continued fair demand for shingles was a bright feature of September, together with indications that logging operations may be resumed more briskly in October.

FARMERS MARCH TO SEE BRACKEN
WINNIPEG, Oct. 12 (CP).—Flooding out a weary fifteen or twenty miles a day in an effort to "keep an appointment" with Premier John Bracken, hundreds of Manitoba farmers, tonight camped for the night in scattered farmhouses on the road to the capital to present their complaints to the Government about their inability to pay taxes and other financial troubles.

Preceded by a truck filled with provisions and scouts who go ahead to arrange for accommodation, the men, and some women, too, are converging on Lockport, twenty-five miles north of the city, where they hope to find themselves some 500 strong. At present there are two parties, one each side of the Red River.

The combined party expect to arrive in the capital some time on Monday. No preparations have been made here by police and no trouble is anticipated. Many of the marchers carry banners which urge others to join their parade.

FOUR INJURED IN FARM STRIKE FIGHT
ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 12 (AP).—A Minnesota farm strike battle, in which four persons were injured slightly, was quelled today by deputy sheriffs after an emsayer had been sent to ask the Governor of the state for troops.

The outbreak was the most serious since farmers in several Minnesota counties began picketing highways and terminals several weeks ago.

DETAILS OF CANADA'S AGREEMENTS WITH UNITED KINGDOM AND OTHER DOMINIONS REVEALED BY PREMIER

"Have Done Well," Declares Prime Minister in Addressing the House

IS NEW DEPARTURE IN EMPIRE POLICY

OTTAWA, Oct. 12 (CP).—"I say we have done well," exclaimed Premier R. B. Bennett in the House of Commons today, while his followers cheered and applauded in noisy endorsement of his views concerning the four trade pacts negotiated by Canada at the Imperial Conference.

"And," proceeded the Prime Minister as he submitted the pacts for ratification, "let those who for personal or party advantage, cavil at these agreements, remember that in all the history of the Empire nothing has been done before comparable in present benefit or future promise to that which the Ottawa Conference may claim to its lasting credit."

EXPLAINS DETAILS
For two hours, with his voice growing huskier and huskier, the Prime Minister explained the details of the most important of the four treaties, that with the United Kingdom. Based on mutual tariff preferences, it grants increased markets for Canadian natural and manufactured products in return for concessions in this market for British manufactured goods.

Canada made 225 substantive changes in its tariff wall to give United Kingdom manufacturers the opportunity to capture this market from United States and other foreign competitors.

REDUCED TARIFFS
Canada scaled down its tariff against certain British iron and steel products, some classes of cottons, woolsens, linens and jute, leather goods, glass, vegetable oils, alcoholic spirits and a wide range of specialties, including chemicals and automobiles.

In return, Canada secured free entry into the United Kingdom market for practically all manufactured products with foreign goods paying tolls ranging from 10 to 33 per cent.

"The possibilities of increased activities in Canadian factories and transportation routes with corresponding decrease in unemployment, as a result of these preferences, is unlimited," said the Prime Minister.

Got Fatal Push for Bad Shots
SEATTLE, Oct. 12.—A declaration that he had been pinned off by a thirty-foot cliff by another hunter a week ago on the Green River after a quarrel, and that he had withheld the report until his physician told him that he could not recover from his injuries, was given to authorities today by Frank Simpson, of Seattle, from a hospital bed at Auburn.

He said the man, who had also been hunting in the vicinity, came up to him and berated him for his marksmanship after firing twice at a bear and missing the animal. During the quarrel, Simpson added, he was pushed over the cliff, landing on his back on the rocks below and remaining helpless until three men appeared and took him in a car to the hospital.

Was Whole Day at Bottom of Well
WETASKIWIN, Alta., Oct. 12 (CP).—Peter Kortzman, eighty-year-old Battle River farmer, spent twenty-four hours at the bottom of a forty-foot well with a broken leg and hand. The aged man slipped from the ladder into the well and plunged to the bottom.

The farmer is half blind and his wife is totally blind. The woman said she was unable to render assistance. Her daughter arrived at the farm home twenty-four hours after Mr. Kortzman's plunge into the well and she summoned police, who removed the man and secured medical attention.

No Second Fiddle Part for Hitler

GUENZBURG, Bavaria, Oct. 13 (AP).—Adolf Hitler began his campaign yesterday for the Reichstag elections on November 6 with a speech condemning Chancellor von Papen's economic programme.

He said it was sheer impudence to expect him to co-operate with the present Cabinet and he swore he would play a second fiddle to no one on earth.

Bob Henderson Produces Samples of Pitchblende
VANCOUVER, Oct. 12.—A special dispatch to The Vancouver Province from Carcross, Yukon, says:

"One brought back from Mackenzie Mountains by Bob Henderson and Frank Henderson proved to be pitchblende. Their plane was forced to land forty miles from their destination. Younger members of the party who went on experienced great hardship on account of snowstorms in the mountains. Captain John Irving and Bob Henderson remained with the plane. Testa Watson, mining recorder, Carcross, and Thomas Grant prove an important discovery was made. The party left Vancouver two weeks ago and joined the plane at Carcross."

Announces Agreements

Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Who Yesterday Revealed to Parliament the Details of Empire Treaties Negotiated at the Ottawa Conference.

Canada Is Extended Generous Protection In British Markets

Natural Products of Dominion and Wide Range of Manufactured Commodities Will Have Advantage Over Foreign Competitors in U.K.

OTTAWA, Oct. 12 (CP).—Practically the entire range of Canadian natural products is covered in the preferences granted Canada by the United Kingdom under the trade agreement negotiated at the Imperial Economic Conference, Premier R. B. Bennett told the House of Commons today. Benefits to Canadian trade from United Kingdom tariffs were already apparent in some lines, he said, notably timber and some fish products.

LIQUOR PRICES UNCHANGED

Treaty Rebates on Duty and Excise Will Recover Past Losses

Reduction in the Canadian duty on import liquor to the extent of $2 a gallon, and a similar cut in the excise tax on domestic liquors, hailed as one result of the impending operation of the Anglo-Canadian trade treaty, will restore operations of the Liquor Control Board to the basis held before the increase in Federal taxation on liquor last April, it was learned yesterday at the Legislative Buildings.

There will be no excess profits, however, and therefore nothing to pass on to the consumer, British Columbia officials stated.

Attorney-General Pooley explained the Liquor Control Board had taken a reduction in its profit on liquor, equivalent to 30 cents a bottle on Scotch whisky, ever since April 7 last, when the new Dominion imposts went on. The difference between the former taxation and the new was absorbed in part by the board, without change in price to the consumer. If the trade treaty operates as expected to reduce import duties, and excise taxation on domestic brands, it will lift today and a long step toward profit prior to April, but will add no additional benefits.

Mr. Pooley said that under the treaty rebate on duty and excise losses will be recovered.

Favor Scotsmen In Trade Treaty

OTTAWA, Oct. 13 (CP).—From the hearts of Scots-Canadians, upon whom the operations of the customs tariff have in one respect weighed heavily, a tremendous load was lifted today and a long step toward unity. Bagpipes, hitherto admitted to Canada over a barrier of 15 per cent from the United Kingdom, will henceforth be admitted free.

More Than Two Hundred British Commodities Given Preferences in Canada

WIDE VARIETY OF ARTICLES FAVORED

OTTAWA, Oct. 12 (CP).—Wide-ranged British preferential rates on 225 items in the Canadian list are granted in the tariff changes moved in the House of Commons today, the result of the Imperial Economic Conference agreements.

Iron and steel in raw state, restricted to use for forgings, iron and steel parts and machines for use in Canadian factories only, all forms of wire, tramway tracks, mining machinery, are given preferences either in the form of reduced rates or a continuation of the free entry with increased intermediate and general rates.

LIQUOR DUTIES
Alcoholic beverages, including liquors, wines and ales, are favored up to as high as $2 a gallon, compared with the former rates, while cigarettes and tobacco share largely in the reductions.

Cotton, woolen, linen and jute fabrics in a wide variety of classifications, will have increased preferences ranging from free to one-third of the former rates.

Leathers are given wider preferences both by reduced preferential rates and increased intermediate and general rates.

Hides and skins, whether dry, salted or pickled, and raw pelts, will be free from all countries. These were previously free from British sources, but had intermediate and general rates of 10 and 15 per cent.

Anthracite coal will have an increased preference of 10 cents a ton.

AUTOMOBILES FREE
All kinds of automobiles and motorcycles will have free entry. Where the preferential rate was formerly from 12 1/2 to 15 per cent in the case of motorcycles, the general and intermediate rates are increased also. Motor buses remain unchanged.

Increased intermediate and general tariffs have been applied to scores of chemical compounds which enter free.

Radio and parts, including batteries, get a preference of 15 per cent.

Typewriters are made free under the British preferential tariff, while increases are made in the intermediate and general rates on printing and lithographing presses.

SCHOOL BOARD SURPLUS SEEN

Trustee Beckwith Makes Forecast—Sinking Fund Has $190,000 Balance

Coinciding with the announcement yesterday that the city's sinking fund would end the year with a surplus of $190,000, Trustee J. L. Beckwith forecast at last night's meeting of the School Board a possible surplus in its budget.

The forecast was made when Trustee Beckwith reported on an interview he had had with Mayor David Leeming in regard to the proposed early budget.

Mr. Beckwith said he had been asked by the Mayor if it would be possible for the School Board to file a tentative early budget, the same as proposed by the council. Mr. Beckwith said that this was not legal, but assured the Mayor that every expenditure was being watched carefully; that expenditures were below those of last year, and there was every reason to believe that the School Board would end the year in this happy position.

UNDER ESTIMATES
The finance committee, of which Trustee Beckwith is chairman, reported to last night's meeting that expenditures today were $26,711.33 below those for the corresponding period of last year. If this could be maintained, there was every prospect of there being a surplus.

Next year, it also was learned, nearly half a mill will be wiped off the School Board's debt rate. Total expenditures so far this year amount to $261,328.25 as compared with $268,494.57 for the corresponding period of 1931.

THREE SUSPECTED BURGLARS ARRESTED

KAMLOOPS, Oct. 12.—Angus McEachern, Ernest Watson and Charles Conroy, suspected of the recent burglary at Ashcroft, in which about $600 was stolen by dynamiting the vault in the store of Harvey Bailey Ltd., have been arrested here and sent to that town.

Mrs. Margaret Webb, a suspected associate, has been sent to jail for ten days for having a gun in her possession.

EDUCATIONAL PLAN SUCCESS

Volunteer Committee Complimented for Fine Work on Bursary Scheme

Now in its third year of operation, the system of school bursaries paid by the British Columbia Government to soldiers' dependents' children, to enable them to continue their studies where they show promise, is working well, and has proved a boon to many families in need of this aid. Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe stated yesterday.

The Minister of Education paid high tribute to the voluntary board which administers the scheme, and which is composed of Dr. S. J. Willis, superintendent of education, chairman; Lieut.-Colonel W. S. Buehl, Vancouver, representing the Canadian Legion; Capt. C. F. E. Money, Victoria, representing the Army and Navy Veterans, and J. A. Perry, Vancouver, the Amputees Association. The secretary of the board, the staff of the Department of Education, is secretary to the board.

ASSISTED THIS YEAR
A total of 158 children have been granted aid to the extent of $68 each this year under the plan, $12,000 being set aside in provincial votes for the purpose. In 1930, eighty-six children received assistance to continue in their studies, and in 1931, 131 children were similarly helped. In all cases the department follows up the work of the students, and a high percentage of promotions and honors in studies has been the result.

DETAILS OF SCHEME
Convinced that many veterans do not know of the existing law, which was passed in 1930, Mr. Hinchliffe has written to the provincial command of the three leading veterans' groups, drawing attention to the details of the scheme. Applications are confined to veterans' children under sixteen who have reached a standard equivalent to high school entrance, and whose parents are in actual need of this assistance. Applications must be made prior to September.

Administering $12,000 in its first year, $15,000 last year, and $12,000 in the current period, the volunteer board operating the plan has compiled a fine record for low-cost administration. Expenditures are confined to negligible proportions, the entire cost of administration last year being $54 for the disbursement of $15,000 to 131 selected families granted aid under the scheme.

RETIRED HEAD HONORED HERE

Staff of Great-West Life Assurance Company Pays Tribute to J. C. Wilson

J. C. Wilson, who is retiring from the management of the Vancouver Island branch of the Great-West Life Assurance Company after eighteen years in the service, was the recipient of a unique tribute from the agents and members of the staff with whom he has been so long associated.

The event took the form of a surprise party at his home, among those present being H. Despard, Twigg, M.P.P.; T. H. Brown, Colonel Lorne Ross, J. H. Croft and J. Burgess, all agents of the company; W. C. Hudson, cashier, and T. R. Kerby, A. Jackson and Miss Boorman, members of the staff. A. J. Humphries was unable to be present.

In the unavoidable absence, also, of A. M. Altkon, who holds the record of the longest agency association with the company, T. H. Brown presented Mr. Wilson, on behalf of those present, with a leather dressing case, suitably inscribed.

ADDRESS PRESENTED
In an address which accompanied it, regret was expressed at Mr. Wilson's retirement owing to ill health, and reference was made to the cordial relations that had existed between manager and staff. The wish was conveyed that he would have many years to enjoy his retirement. The encouragement which he had always meted out to the staff, and the aid given them, was incorporated with reference to the fact that he had always kept the interests of the company before him, as was shown by the achievements during his management.

Mr. Brown also presented to Mrs. Wilson a combination cigarette lighter and case, and a handsome bouquet of chrysanthemums.

TAKEN BY SURPRISE
Mr. Wilson, who was taken completely by surprise, emphasized the happy relationship that had existed between himself and those associated with him, and said he would

Uniform for Girls Wins Endorsement

The proposal that high school girls wear uniform dresses was partially endorsed by the school board at its meeting last night.
Trustee P. E. George moved that uniforms for girls be made compulsory in the high school, and the promise was reached whereby the parents will be asked to co-operate to the fullest extent.

In the meantime, details will be worked out to see if it is possible to have all girls adopt the uniform, and that those less fortunate than others will not feel at a disadvantage in respect to clothing.

CHILDREN TO HEAR OF DAY

Remembrance Day Exercises Will Be Held In All B.C. Schools

First celebration of Remembrance Day as a distinctly separate anniversary in Canadian annals will be attended this year by special exercises in the schools, it was stated yesterday by Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe.

The significance of the anniversary of the Armistice, November 11, 1918, will be brought home to students of all British Columbia schools on the last teaching day before the holiday.

Mr. Hinchliffe is inviting the co-operation of returned men's organizations and teaching bodies in this connection.

In a letter to the Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion, the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada and the Amputees Association, the Minister of Education sets out the facts as follows:

IS SCHOOL REGULATION
"A regulation was made by the Council of Public Instruction at the last session dealing with the observance of Remembrance Day. The regulation reads as follows:

"Remembrance Day—On the last teaching day preceding Remembrance Day, November 11, the principal or teacher of each school should give a short address with the view of impressing on the pupils the real significance of the event which is celebrated each year on that day."

"I think it would be an excellent thing if the returned soldiers in each school district should get in touch with the school boards and school teachers for the purpose of interesting these officials in seeing that this regulation is carried out in the most effective manner."

The returned men might supply the teacher with information and data that could be profitably used as material for the address to be given to the children and, if the teacher wished, he might invite some returned soldier to give the address in his place.

"I am writing to you in order that you may know exactly what the Department of Education has done in this matter and, if possible, to enlist your assistance in impressing upon the minds of the young people the real significance of Remembrance Day," the minister concluded.

PREPARING FOR POPPY CAMPAIGN

Remembrance Day Committee Announces Opening of View Street Headquarters for Canvassers

The Remembrance Day Committee has established headquarters at 711 View Street, where wreaths and poppies made by disabled veterans in the Victoria Red Cross Workshop are on display. J. W. Watkinson, sales manager, announces that canvassers have commenced work in the business section and that an effort will be made to dispose of one or more wreaths to every storekeeper.

The Provincial Red Cross Society will not share in the profits derived from the sale of poppies this year. That humanitarian organization is not, at this time, appealing for funds in support of the excellent work which it is doing in the lonely settlements of British Columbia, therefore, the whole of the proceeds from poppy sales will be devoted to the assistance of needy veterans in this district.

The committee points out that the Flanders poppy, the symbol of remembrance, has a threefold significance; it commemorates the sacrifices of the dead, provides a fund for the living who are in need, and furnishes employment for disabled veterans at the Red Cross Workshop.

A successful poppy day will alleviate much distress, and the committee appeals to all businessmen to make it so by doing their "bit" and displaying a poppy wreath in every store.

Deck Jobs Taken by Certified Officers
AUCKLAND, Oct. 12 (CP).—Certified officers, unable to find bridge jobs owing to the shipping slump, arrived here among the crew of the Commonwealth Dominion liner Port Glabore, today. When that steamer arrived from London she had a deck crew of eighteen young officers, of whom sixteen were English and two New Zealanders.

LAI D AT REST
The funeral of Edwin Frampton took place yesterday afternoon, service being held at Christ Church Cathedral at 2 o'clock. Rev. A. M. Acheson-officiating. There was a large attendance of friends and many floral tributes covered the casket. The remains were laid to rest in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery. The following acted as pallbearers: C. S. Frampton, B. Lee, J. Lee, A. Lee, Jack Frampton and C. McKenna.

FLOATED AGAIN AT HIGH WATER

Japanese Freighter May Come to Esquimalt to Repair Damage

Outward bound from Vancouver for Japan ports, and considerably off her course when she ran ashore four miles east of Port Angeles, yesterday morning, at 7 o'clock, in a dense fog, the Yamashita Shipping Company's freighter, Norfolk Maru, was fortunate in being able to float herself without assistance.

The Norfolk Maru mislaid the fog horn at Ediz Hook, Port Angeles, for the fog signal at Race Rocks, and turned in the wrong direction, slipping up on the sand bar of Morse Creek. The ship was traveling slowly at the time, and five hours later was freed by the incoming tide, which lifted her off the beach. She was boarded by a Port Angeles pilot, who took her into that harbor. It was found she was leaking badly.

Called to go to the assistance of the Norfolk Maru, the Ss. Salvage King left Victoria Harbor at 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning, but was too late to be of any use in getting the stricken ship afloat. The Pacific Salvage Company was instructed to make an underwater survey of the stranded ship, however, and this was to commence immediately on her arrival at Port Angeles.

It is expected she will be towed to Esquimalt for docking and further survey.

TRIBUTE PAID TO ORGANIZER

Glowing tribute to the memory of Sir George Williams, father of the Y.M.C.A. movement, who rose from the station in life of a farmer's boy to that of knighthood, was paid by Frank Paulding, secretary of the local Y.M.C.A., in an address to the Men's Club of Metropolitan United Church.

Mr. Paulding gave a brief synopsis of the life of Williams from the time of his birth until the founding of the Y.M.C.A. in the year 1844. Four years after its formation, the association's membership had increased from twelve to 1,000, and today the total enrollment numbers 2,250,000.

Rev. E. F. Church gave a reading, and Rev. J. H. A. Warr led the community singing.

Court of Revision Cuts Assessments

The Court of Revision on assessments has only thirty-four appeals to consider now as a result of a three-hour session yesterday. Fourteen cases were disposed of.

These appeals covered the parcels of property, and reductions were allowed in only twenty-six instances. The reductions averaged less than 5 per cent.

Attendance In Schools Gratifying

Figures submitted to the City School Board at its meeting last night revealed a high percentage of attendance in all public schools. Not one division reported less than 90 per cent, while one high school class reported an average monthly attendance of 99.32.

The enrollment at the Victoria High School is 1,294, of which 637 are boys and 657 girls. The average daily attendance last month was 1,247.21.

Total enrollment in all schools amounts to 5,801, of which 2,925 are boys and 2,876 are girls. The average daily attendance was 5,604.41.

LIGHT SERVICE TO BE RESUMED

Agreement for Cheaper Operation of Saanich System Made With Company

Saanich street light service will be resumed tonight for the Winter months at a considerably reduced rate per kilowatt, which is expected to save the municipality a little more than $1,000 a year, as compared with former years.

An agreement was recently drawn up between Reeve William Crouch and S. J. Hall, light and power manager of the B.C. Electric Railway Company, by which the service will be provided for three cents a kilowatt instead of six cents, the rate the municipality has been paying.

Saanich ratepayers will receive this news gladly as several complaints have been launched at recent ratepayers' meetings of the danger of unlighted streets. The service was discontinued by the council earlier in the year, partly as an economy move and because of the approaching summer.

Based on last year's figures, the council will be able to effect a saving of about $1,400. The cost of lighting the municipality in 1931 was $2,822. This amount, however, varies each year.

A Better Way to Enjoy the Benefits of YEAST

HERE is pure, fresh yeast, of the richest kind—dried and flaked, to give you the health properties of fresh yeast in a form that will keep.

YEAST FLAKES is the same pure, concentrated dry yeast in flake form that has been given away free for nearly a year, through the St. John Ambulance Brigade (Overseas), to weak, undernourished, and run-down children and adults, at clinics and relief centres throughout Montreal.

Brewers' yeast is the richest of all yeasts in the vitamins that have made yeast world-famous as a health-builder. N B YEAST FLAKES is pure, fresh brewers' yeast, dried and flaked. Just that—nothing more!

Thousands in Montreal have Benefited

The St. John Ambulance Brigade has recorded excellent results from the use of YEAST FLAKES. Better general health, more energy, normal weight, a clearer complexion, a general toning up of the whole system, are some of the benefits to be expected from the regular use of YEAST FLAKES.

Good for adults—and especially for growing children, who need a rich supply of vitamins to build health now, and to develop bodies that will be more resistant to disease throughout an entire lifetime.

Victoria Nurse Is Heard at Shawnigan

SHAWNIGAN LAKE, Oct. 12.—

The quarterly meeting of the Shawnigan Mothers' Union was held on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. F. M. Winters. The president, Mrs. Beasley, occupied the chair and twenty-five members and friends were present. The meeting opened with a devotional session led by Mrs. Beasley. Following the roll call and reading of the minutes, orders for magazines and almanacs were taken, in readiness for the new year beginning with the next meeting in January. Mrs. Musgrave resigned her position as literature secretary, as she intends going abroad in the near future. Mrs. Cockshott kindly offered to take her place temporarily.

New and associate members were welcomed to the branch, and arrangements were made for a service admitting the new members in January. The financial report for the year was read, and Mrs. Beasley was re-elected unanimously to the office of enrolling member.

The address of the afternoon was given by Miss Thornley, of the Victorian Order of Nurses, who spoke of the work of the order in Victoria and expressed their appreciation for the generous donations of clothes by the Mothers' Union. The speaker also conveyed a message of appreciation to Mrs. Beasley for her work in the work of the order during the summer.

A man went to see his physician for advice as to how to be cured of the habit of snoring. "Does your snoring disturb your wife?" asked the doctor. "Does it disturb my wife?" echoed the patient. "Why, it disturbs the whole congregation."

VANCOUVER
 PASTOR IS MODERATOR

Rev. David Lister, Dr. Th., Elected Leader of Presbyterian Synod of B.C.

THREE-DAY MEETING
 OPENED LAST NIGHT

Rev. David Lister, Dr. Th., pastor of the Kerrisdale Presbyterian Church, Vancouver, was elected moderator of the British Columbia Synod of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, succeeding Rev. H. P. S. Luttrell, of Victoria, when the synod opened its forty-second session in St. Andrew's Church here last night.

Mr. Lister's nomination was proposed by Thomas Humphries and seconded by Rev. Dr. A. O. Thomson, both of Victoria, who spoke of his long association with the provincial synod during his twenty years' residence in the province. He is former moderator of the Victoria Presbytery, having been in charge of the St. Aidan's pastorate at Mount Tolmie in 1928.

Representatives from Kootenay, Kamloops, Westminster and Victoria presbyteries are gathered here for the business sessions, which will commence at 9:30 o'clock this morning, continuing until Friday evening or Saturday.

Mr. Luttrell stated he had not been called upon very frequently to act in official capacity during his term of office. As retiring moderator, he preached a sermon during the evening, taking for his text John xii, 21 and 32. Dr. Johnston asked the blessing following the reading of the Scripture lesson.

Mr. Lister was robed and presented to the synod by his nominators, after which he expressed thanks for the unexpected honor which had been conferred upon him. A vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Luttrell for his services as leader of the synod and for his sermon.

FEATURES OF PROGRAMME
 Features of the programme for the three-day gathering were announced, and include a public address by the Moderator of the General Assembly tonight at 8 o'clock in St. Andrew's Church; a supper for members of the synod and representatives of the various presbyteries, to be given by the women's guilds of the local presbytery in the church at 6:15 o'clock tonight; and a luncheon in Spencer's dining-room on Friday at 12:15 o'clock, when Dr. Johnston will address members of the synod and prominent representatives of the presbytery.

Those attending the meeting are: Kootenay Presbytery, Rev. F. St. Denis and Noble Blinn, both of Trail; Kamloops Presbytery, Rev. G. Dickie, B.A. of Kamloops, and Rev. J. F. Bell, Armstrong; Westminster Presbytery, Rev. R. J. Douglas, New Westminster; Rev. J. McTurk, Chilliwack; Rev. D. Campbell, D.D., Vancouver; Rev. H. T. Murray, B.A., Vancouver; Rev. A. G. Wishart, B.A., Vancouver; B. A. McDonald, Vancouver; Rev. J. M. McGillivray, B.A., Vancouver; Rev. David Lister, Dr. Th., Vancouver; I. W. Alex. Esler, D.D., Vancouver; Rev. R. G. McBeth, L.L.D., Vancouver; Rev. Thomas Oswald, Vancouver, Victoria Presbytery; Rev. Samuel Lundin, B.A., Sooke; Rev. F. M. Leung, Victoria; Rev. H. P. S. Luttrell, B.A.; Rev. A. O. Thomson, B.D., O.D., Victoria; Rev. G. F. Cook, Victoria; Rev. T. H. McAllister, Port Alberni; Rev. J. S. Patterson, Victoria; Rev. E. Beattie, Nanaimo; Rev. P. McNabb; Rev. W. E. Daly, L.L.D., and Alex. Cruickshank, W. C. Douglas, N. MacDonald, N. Marrs, W. A. Jamieson, George McCandless, and Thomas Humphries, all of Victoria.

 OF NORTHWEST

Ald. John A. Worthington Impressed With Work of Travel Bureaus

Alderman J. A. Worthington has returned from a tour of the Pacific Northwest and reports that the various travel bureaus he called upon are all doing their utmost to swing tourist traffic toward Victoria. The alderman went as far as Portland and was thrilled with the football game between University of Washington and University of Oregon. There were 32,000 persons at the game. Alderman Worthington expressed the hope that similar rivalry could be built up between Victoria and Vancouver.

People came from all parts of Oregon and Washington to see the game. The hotels were full and Portland benefited thereby. Alderman Worthington also visited Longview, Mount Rainier, Everett and Seattle, and was impressed everywhere he went at the support Victoria was receiving in its campaign to attract tourists to Vancouver Island.

City & District

Represented City—Mayor David Leeming and Alderman T. W. Hawkins, chairman of the fire wardens committee, left for Vancouver yesterday to attend the Firemen's Benefit Association Ball in that city last night.

To Discuss Movement—On Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock, at the corner of Langley and Courtney Streets, Walter Inward will address a meeting of citizens on a proposed movement to alleviate present unemployment conditions.

Ward One Liberals—Members of Ward One Liberal Association met last evening in the Liberal headquarters and discussed matters affecting the political situation. The meeting was presided over by the ward president, Donald Vetch.

Consider Action—Action by the Government in regard to the McGough case will be considered by the Cabinet today. Some members of the ministry are pressing for a departmental inquiry to emphasize the fact that there are no grounds for the complaint.

Case Is Remanded—William Birch, charged with criminal assault, appeared before Magistrate Jay in the provincial court yesterday afternoon and was remanded until next Wednesday afternoon for hearing. The remand was granted at the request of R. C. Lowe, his counsel.

Rotary Programme—Professor H. F. Angus, of the University of British Columbia, will address the Victoria Rotary Club today at 12:10 p.m. in the Empress Hotel on the subject, "The Duty of a Government in Dealing Its Monetary Policy." Vocal solos will be rendered by Mrs. Kathleen Barrowclough, and Mrs. Clifford Wain will be the accompanist.

Finds Improvement—G. W. Goodale, who represents the Monetary Times in Western Canada, is in Victoria in the course of a tour through his territory. He reports that the situation in Western Canada is much improved. This applies especially to the Prairie sections, where the crops have had a very encouraging effect upon the citizens.

Admitted to Bar—Robert Theodore DuMoulin and Charles Jackson Snider Farrand, both of Vancouver, were called and admitted to the Bar of British Columbia as barristers and solicitors here yesterday. Mr. DuMoulin and Mr. Farrand were introduced to the bench by W. C. Moresby, K.C., and were received by Mr. Justice Gregory at a special sitting of the Supreme Court.

Fishermen Fined—John Fleming and Joseph Schumay were convicted in provincial police court, yesterday afternoon, of a charge of trespass and two charges under the fishing regulations. They were fined $15 on each charge, and $2 costs on each count. The two were apprehended on the Island Highway by provincial police officers on October 4. The offences occurred in the vicinity of Jack Lake.

Women Conservatives—Election of officers and annual reports will be the chief business at the annual meeting of the Victoria Women's Conservative Club to be held at the Campbell Building this evening, commencing at 8 o'clock. Mrs. F. Kilby will be in the chair. The meeting will be a private one, open only to members of the organization. Members are reminded that the treasurer will be on hand at 7:30 p.m. in connection with dues.

Women's Institutes of Vancouver Island

STRAWBERRY VALE
 A very successful five hundred party was held in the Colquhitt Hall recently, when the Women's Institute held its annual popular card games, eight tables being in play. The following were successful prize winners: Mr. Hamilton, Mr. F. Francis, Miss Peine, Mr. S. Dixon, Mrs. Neligan and Mr. Rowland. Refreshments were served at the close of the game by Mrs. Harper, assisted by Mr. Humphries and Mrs. Austin. Old-time dancing followed.

COWICHAN
 Cowichan Women's Institute met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. N. O'Neill. Routine business was transacted. A donation will be sent to Cobble Hill W.I. towards the erection of a tablet at Queen Alexandra Solarium. Cowichan Institute will assist the other institutes at the hospital bazaar.

LANGFORD
 The social meeting of the Langford W.I. will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. R. J. Smith, Langford Lake. Preceding this meeting, the social committee will meet to discuss plans for the season's social activities.

Officers Chosen At Meeting Held By Mothers' Union

Mrs. Llewellyn Thomas was re-elected president of the Mothers' Union at the annual meeting held yesterday afternoon at St. Mary's Hall. Other officers were elected as follows: Vice-president, Mrs. S. H. Brake; secretary, Mrs. Elythe; literary secretary, Mrs. Charles Hartley; link secretary, Mrs. B. G. Coward; treasurer, Mrs. W. P. Basford; and tea convener, Mrs. H. C. Corbett.

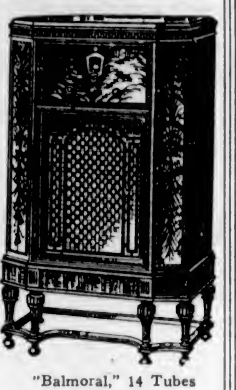

Reports were read by the secretary, treasurer and secretaries of the following prayer circles: St. Mary's, Mrs. Sydney Oliver; St. John's, Mrs. S. H. Brake; St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, Mrs. Forman; Cathedral, Mrs. R. Angus; Shawnigan Lake, Mrs. Beasley; and Janze Bay, Mrs. E. P. Laycock. The president gave a short address on the general work of the Mothers' Union and gave many encouraging words and helpful advice as to how the objects of the movement may be forwarded.

Miss Thornley, of the Victorian Order of Nurses, told in an interesting way of the work of the order, and received with grateful thanks a large supply of babies' clothing from the Mothers' Union. The treasurer read an interesting article telling of the St. Monica Mothers' Union caravan in Australia. The members enjoyed tea at the close of the meeting.

Women's Institutes Study Unemployed Problem at Session

South Vancouver Island District W.I.'s Appoint Committee to Make Recommendation for Care of Deserving Cases in Rural Communities

UNEMPLOYMENT relief, particularly in rural communities where the merits of otherwise of the respective cases are well known to the residents, was the subject of a recommendation introduced at the afternoon session of the annual conference of the South Vancouver Island District Women's Institutes yesterday.

The recommendation was brought in by Mrs. J. D. Gordon, provincial president, who maintained that unemployment relief throughout the province should be dealt with by "reliable voluntary organizations" such as the women's institutes, not by paid committees, for no one knew better who was deserving of relief in rural districts than the people living there.

To bring the matter to a head, she proposed the appointment of a committee on "relief and administration of relief," with the idea of preserving the morale and self-respect of those receiving help, and the following were named, under Mrs. Gordon's convener'ship, to discuss the matter and formulate some concrete suggestions before the conference adjourns: Mrs. White, Victoria; Mrs. B. A. MacMillan, Cobble Hill; Mrs. H. E. Troop, Oyster Bay; Mrs. H. Lawrie, South Saanich; Mrs. Clarke, Shirley; and Mrs. Hutchinson, Victoria.

FULL SESSION
The afternoon session included interesting institute reports. Mrs. M. E. Welch, of Langford W.I., displayed the Lieutenant-Governor's prize, won by her for the best British Columbia products prize essay, which she read. Mrs. E. Bailey Price, president of the Women's Canadian Press Club, and publicity convener of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, spoke on "The World-Wide Scope of Women's Institutes." J. B. Munro, deputy minister of agriculture, described the work of the Tudor Rose League of British Columbia, which was in basic employment providers, his remarks being supplemented by Mrs. W. D. Todd and Mrs. J. D. Gordon brought greetings from the Provincial Institute.

Victoria was one of the first institutes to support the home products campaign, which was, in basic principle, the principle behind the Tudor Rose League. Mr. Munro told the meeting in his short address. Membership in the league brought with it a badge which served as a a concise summary of her reasons for supporting British Columbia products, was appropriate to the discussion.

USEFUL HARD TIMES
"Better methods, new ideas, and increasing knowledge of the spirit of institute work are brought out better by the hard times we are now undergoing," said Mrs. Gordon, the provincial president, in reviewing her experiences among the institutes of the Interior during the past few months.

In the Okanagan she had been greatly cheered by the "healthy signs of revived and scientific interest in farming on the part of the young people of the country." A primary cause of this was the character of the teams sent out to judge at fairs, in which connection she spoke of the two girls who, winning in Vancouver as judges of cattle, had received a trip to the Armstrong fair, and winning there, had received a trip to the Toronto fair. The small fair was, she maintained, a great educational force in a community, particularly if the judges gave instructive adjudications.

PROSPEROUS SIGNS
"The Okanagan," she reported, "showed signs of prosperity, with great quantities of products everywhere." She spoke of the large number of race horses owned in the Valley. If people could own horses just for pleasure, things were not too bad. Saanich and Sooke members took up Mrs. Gordon's reference to the wealth of grapes and red delicious apples in the Okanagan, reporting that these products were to be found on the Island also.

A resolution sponsored by Lake Hill Women's Institute called for investigation by the conference of the possibilities of manufacture in Victoria of glass sealers for jars and preserves, the imported sealers making home-made jam too expensive. Mrs. Lawrence pointed out that a Canadian-made sealer was already on the market.

CONCERT HELD
A successful concert was held in the Presbyterian Sunday School recently. The programme was arranged by Mrs. Olive Campbell with a number of her pupils assisting. At the conclusion of the concert, afternoon tea was served by the Ladies' Aid of the Sunday School. An invitation for the next meeting was given by Mrs. F. W. Urquhart, and a candle stall was in charge of Mrs. Cameron and Mrs. Taylor.

Campbell River

Miss E. Thulin has returned from spending her vacation in Vancouver. A dance was held at the Community Hall on Saturday.

Will Sing in Oratorio

Dr. and Mrs. T. H. Johns, bass and soprano, two of the three soloists who will take part in Haydn's "Creation" to be sung on Friday night at the Metropolitan Church by the combined choir of Metropolitan and Centennial Churches. Mrs. Johns will sing the two beautiful solos, "With Verdure Glad" and "On Mighty Pines"; Dr. Johns will sing "Roaring and Foaming Billows" and "Now Heaven in Full-stormy Shout"; and Fraser Lister, tenor, will carry the solos for this voice. There are several duets and trios in the work which will be sung by combinations of these three.

Clubs and Societies

Duncan W.M.S.

Mrs. H. J. Armitage, Victoria, presbyterial president of the Women's Missionary Society, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Duncan W.M.S. in the United Church on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Armitage, who is just returning from a visit to mission schools and organizations on Vancouver Island, gave a most interesting account of the work being done. The hospital erected at Burns Lake by the women's society was described. Mrs. W. J. Curry introduced Mrs. Armitage and with Mrs. George Owens sponsored appreciation for her visit. Devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. Robert Mann. Two new members were enrolled. Tea was served, the associate helpers being special guests.

Wilkinson W.M.S.

The monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of the Wilkinson Road United Church was held on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. D. Phillips, Royal Oak. Mrs. Jewell, the president, occupied the chair and led the devotional exercises. Mrs. Etheridge read the Scripture lesson. Reports were given by the various secretaries and a reading of the Christian Stewardship was given by Mrs. Nott. A solo, "In the Garden," rendered by Mrs. Campbell. Miss Haddock, of the Oriental Home in Victoria, was introduced by Mrs. Allen and gave a very interesting talk on their work in Prince Rupert. An invitation for the next meeting to be held at the Oriental Home was accepted.

Metchoin W.I.

The Thanksgiving supper and entertainment given by the members of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Mary's Church, held at Metchoin Hall on Tuesday evening, was a great success. The hall was decorated with chrysanthemums and flowers. Mrs. Bolton was convener of the supper committee, assisted by Mesdames Blythe, Ferguson, Reid, A. Luky, W. Witty, H. House, the Misses Pears, Messrs. R. Weir, R. Johnson, H. G. Hall, G. C. Arden and E. Hodgson. Mr. Pullen was at the door. Rev. H. M. Bolton, the vicar, congratulated the ladies of the W.A., upon their very successful evening, and the general way the people responded to the appeals for assistance.

Belmont W.A.

A most enjoyable afternoon tea was held yesterday by the Women's Auxiliary of the Belmont United Church, under the convener'ship of the president, Mrs. P. P. Knott. Mrs. R. Knight was convener of the refreshments, and was assisted by Mesdames C. Wharton, F. Christ, E. Hurst, E. Parfitt, F. Emery and Perry. The tables were beautifully decorated with yellow chrysanthemums, dahlias in autumn shades, Michaelmas daisies and sweet peas. By Mrs. J. Chapman and Mrs. F. McGowan. A home-cooking stall was successfully manned under the direction of Mrs. R. James, assisted by Mrs. G. Weber and Mrs. H. Andrews.

Navy League W.A.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Navy League will hold a special meeting today at 2:30 p.m., in the Navy League rooms, Bastion Building, to arrange the details for the "At Home" to be held on Friday, October 21, at Rainbow Sea Cadets' headquarters, Outer Wharf, and for the tag day on Saturday, October 22. The Women's Auxiliary Pro Patria Branch, Canadian Legion, held its monthly meeting with the president, Mrs. Ricketts, in the chair. Plans were made to hold a dance in the Legion Hall on October 27. There will be a social evening for members and their friends next Tuesday evening at Mrs. B. Ripley's home. Mrs. Nelson was appointed to the sick committee. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Ricketts and Mrs. Ripley served refreshments.

St. Saviour's W.A.

Mrs. Alan Gardiner entertained the members and friends of the St. Saviour's Women's Auxiliary at a silver tea yesterday afternoon at her home, 512 Catherine Street. Assisting her in the serving of refreshments were Mrs. B. B. Temple, Mrs. E. W. Henry and Mrs. Cody-Johnson. Mrs. S. Clegg and Miss O'Reilly poured tea from a table prettily decorated with yellow chrysanthemums.

The Whole Story on Half Size Fall Coats

Here is news for those ladies who find the regulation proportions too long, too narrow and too impossible. The half sizes in short or stylish stouts have come as a blessing. How often we succeed in fitting to perfection, with no alteration necessary, is beyond expression.

Fashion Parade at Angus Campbell's Draws Big Crowd

Lovely Autumn Modes Displayed by Attractive Manikins at Morning Show—To Appear Again Today and Tomorrow

ANGUS Campbell & Company, Limited, heralded the first of the season's style shows yesterday morning in the ready-to-wear salon in the store, and a large number of interested onlookers attended. The parade will be staged again this morning and tomorrow between 10 and 11 o'clock.

The setting was particularly effective, two wings of the black and silver background being separated by a huge bowl of zinnias in all the flaming autumn shades. As the mannequins paraded across the stage, the orchestra played a programme of popular and delightful music. While this season's styles seem to have taken no exceptionally decided turn, a note of change has crept a little higher and necklines decidedly rising, in many of the frocks a roll collar neckline being the chief feature.

The mannequins were Mrs. Whitwell, Miss Taylor, Miss Helen Campbell, Miss Bell, Miss Armstrong and Miss Winnie Knapton.

BRIDAL GROUPS

The presentation of the styles was cleverly arranged, and the various groups and ensembles were grouped together with a bridal party as the focal point. The first group included the "bride-elect," modeled by Miss Helen Campbell, who wore a smart afternoon gown of brown and cream lace, with velvet roses in three shades marking the high waistline. The gowns worn by all the mannequins in this group were chosen as being suitable for a pre-nuptial luncheon party, one of lovely black velvet with cleverly-cut skirts being specially suitable for an older guest. A more youthful gown was of angelskin lace in a warm beige tone with one of the popular chiffon velvet costumes. The bridal party itself was very attractive, the bride's gown being somewhat of a novel type for such occasions. Dispensing with the traditional wedding veil, the bride wore a smart sleeveless gown of ivory tiny silver sequins, a deep collar of novel shape at the back lending further interest to the gown by a simple crossover bodice finished on the left hip with a fast trimming of scarlet geraniums, the color note being repeated in the geranium velvet collar and its quaint puff sleeves.

W.M.S. Rally Is Held at St. Andrew's

There was an exceptionally large attendance at the annual rally of the Presbyterian of the Women's Missionary Society, held yesterday at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Mrs. A. G. McDonald, the president, in the chair. In her address, Mrs. McDonald gave a most interesting account of the executive council meeting in Toronto, which she attended.

It was a great pleasure to the members that the moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, Rt. Rev. Robert Johnston, D.D., was present at the meeting yesterday, and gave an inspiring address on the work of the church and its various departments and organizations. Greetings from the Victoria Presbytery were brought by the moderator, Rev. Thomas McAllister.

Mrs. J. S. Patterson delighted the members with a vocal solo during the meeting. Among those attending the meeting were delegates from Alberni, Port Alberni, Nanaimo, Duncan and Sooke. The treasurer's report was read by Mrs. Dickson. While the activities of the Women's Missionary Society had been carried on successfully during the past year, it was of supreme gratification to the members that the young people's work had shown a marked increase, both with regard to membership and finances.

Pageant Presented By Gorge C.G.I.T.

The Canadian Girls in Training of the Gorge Presbyterian Church, gave a successful entertainment at the bankrocker meeting of the Women's Missionary Society held in the church hall, Tillamook Road, on Tuesday evening. An interesting pageant by the girls, entitled "Follow the Gleaner," gave in outline the principles for which the C.G.I.T. stand, viz., to cherish health, speak truth, know God and serve others. Those taking part were Marjorie Willey, Edith Mead, Teke Hamilton, Dorothy Howard, Muriel Smith, Mavis Johnston, Jean Gray, Phyllis Holmes, Joan Boulter, Muriel Ash, Thelma and Joyce Pickard and Margaret Boyd. A series of lantern slides were exhibited, illustrating work among the Indians in Canada.

In the "spectator sports" section were some charming two-piece frocks with unusual trimmings, and the golf outfits were both practical and smart. Suede jackets, with the popular zipper fastenings worn with rough tweed skirts of various shades and new designs were chosen to tone in color, and the hats were chic little fur felt. The Golf line, which is always such a favorite with the discriminating buyer, had some charming tailored frocks of high quality materials.

ALLURING EVENING GOWNS The final group was given over to evening and dinner gowns, which seem to be more alluring than ever. One was a charming creation of white net, embroidered all over in floral design in gold thread and finished at the high waistline with a broad, gold belt.

The essence of sophistication, such as the French model gown of triple sheer crepe in an elusive shade of mustard—a daring change from the pastels and black and white combinations—the bodice joined to the slinky skirt with clever emplacements, and finished with cape sleeves which tied loosely at the waistline at the back.

Ultra-smart, too, was another imported gown of softest pink, triple sheer crepe, the square neck reflecting the French touch in an exquisite pattern of pink and crystal beads, while the waistline was indicated with two rouleaux of pink chiffon velvet in a deeper tone. Miss Campbell modeled a very beautiful evening gown of white silk net patterned in a design outlined with

Pianist Praised By Press

The London Free Press of Tuesday, October 4, carried an enthusiastic critique by "F. B. T." on a piano recital by Gertrude Huntly Green and Miss Trudie Green, both very well known in Victoria, although the latter had not matured to concert musicianship when she left here two years ago. The former now holds the position of head of the music department of her Alma Mater, Alma College, St. Thomas.

Before an audience which completely packed the auditorium of the Central Collegiate Institute, Gertrude Huntly Green and her young daughter, Trudie, opened the season last night with a recital which promises to remain one of the triumphs of Music Club history," writes the critic.

DYNAMIC FORCE "Gertrude Huntly Green is perhaps the most beloved pianist who appears in concert here. She is, without doubt, one of the most brilliant, and her welcome is always assured. She has played here on several occasions and the strength, sincerity and beauty of her art develops steadily. In her programme of unusual scope and exacting in execution, she brought her fine and scholarly technique and the grace of her personality. With that old world air which suggests the delicate flutings of a harp, she has a dynamic force and power and a marked dramatic sense, coupled with a delicate and poetic interpretation."

Appreciative analysis of her several numbers, Bach chorales, Schumann, "Carnaval," a group of Chopin, Debussy and other works followed; then reference to the two-piano compositions, a Concerto of Pridmore-Bach, arranged for the piano by Philipp Schumann's Andante, and the Scherzo movement from Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream," in connection with which the critic notes that "Miss Green, who has only recently been appearing in recital with her distinguished mother, has a definite gift for the piano, and already shows distinction in her work."

Metichosin Mr. A. D. Ellwood and Miss Enid Ellwood, "Ivygreen," who have been for a tour up the Island, returned on Tuesday.

Mr. E. R. Johnson, "Wolanda," who has been in Vancouver for a few weeks, has returned.

TIDE HAS TURNED

For many weeks past we have been shouting from the housetops that furs were too cheap; now the inevitable has happened. Fur prices are rising every day, and now we get word direct from London, England, that raw skins have increased in price very much. Buy that fur coat you want at once, because very soon we will have to charge much more than what we are now doing now.

We have an excellent Muskrat Coat made from the darkest muskrat skins in all sizes for young girls or matured women for $110. Four years ago this coat would sell for $285.

MAY REOPEN OLD WORKING

Port Alberni Residents Have Hopes of Mining City's Own Coal

PORT ALBERNI, Oct. 12.—At the meeting of the City Council last evening a letter was read from J. A. O'Grady, a local resident, asking for the co-operation of the city in an endeavor of several persons to re-open a coal mine formerly operated on the city waterfront. The letter did not ask for any financial assistance, but stated that the old working commenced on the E. & N. Railway right-of-way, and permission from the company would have to be obtained before making a start. The seam of coal, which was mined forty years ago, runs under city property. A discussion arose as to the property rights of the coal; whether it was the city, the Alberni Land Company, the E. & N. Railway or Anderson & Anderson, which owned the rights. Alderman A. Watson, an old-timer, stated that the railway had nothing to do with it as the land and mineral rights were taken up by Anderson & Anderson years before the railway company was ever formed. The letter advised the aldermen that the matter was more of a prospect than a mining development scheme, but that it was hoped to have success and eventually mine coal for local consumption. It was referred to a committee to consider.

MAY BE BREWERY
Alderman Walter Harris stated that he had been advised that the old Spratt Mill, situated on the waterfront, was to be torn down and the site used for a shingle mill. He asked that the matter be looked into. Alderman A. Watson informed the council that he had been advised that it was a brewery which was going to operate, commenting that the latter would probably last longer than a shingle mill.

A long discussion took place regarding relief and means for supplying work. Alderman MacMillan, chairman of the works committee, asked for a supply of gasoline to operate the grader and city trucks. Hugh Fowle, works foreman, advised the council that it required 500 gallons a month.

ASK SUPPORT OF NANAIMO BOARD

Wellington Taxpayers Anxious to Have Brennan Lake Outlet and Millstone River Cleared

NANAIMO, Oct. 12.—The regular monthly meeting of Nanaimo Board of Trade was held last evening in the Legion Hall, with President W. W. Mitchell presiding.

A request from the Wellington taxpayers was received, in which they asked that the board support them in their efforts to have the Government at Victoria clean the Millstone River and the outlet of Brennan Lake, thereby bringing the lake back to its natural level. It seems that large areas of agricultural land in this district were being flooded, also highways, due to the debris which had accumulated along the river and outlet.

After a lengthy discussion by members present, it was decided to leave the matter in the hands of the president and Mr. Kidd for investigation, these members to appoint responsible delegates from the areas affected, and action to be taken with the authorities at Victoria.

Mr. Herdman referred to the "City Beautiful" plan which had been started and suggested that the council follow up their good work by cleaning up all boulevards. The matter was left in the hands of the civic and legislative committee for report at the next meeting.

A request was received from the Qualicum Beach board asking the local board's support in its efforts to have the car fares across the gulf reduced, and the extension of special week-end rates. The matter in question has already been taken up with the C.P.R. by the local board and the Qualicum board will be notified of this effort.

British-Israel Branch Formed

QUALICUM BEACH, Oct. 12.—Rev. E. J. Springet, Dominion secretary of the Canadian British-Israel Association, addressed a meeting at Qualicum Beach on Friday.

Afterwards a branch of the association was formed, officers elected and committees appointed. Mr. Springet will visit Qualicum Beach again, when a series of lectures will be arranged.

Persons interested or wishing to join this local branch are advised to get in touch with the president, W. H. Pomeroy, Qualicum Beach, or with H. J. Pomeroy, the secretary, who will give full information.

ACQUITTED OF DRUG CHARGE

Duncan Chinese Found Not Guilty of Selling Opium—Manslaughter Charge Falls

NANAIMO, Oct. 12.—Fall assize court opened here this morning with His Lordship Chief Justice Morrison presiding. The first case to come up for hearing was that of Cheng Chung, Chinese resident of Duncan, who pleaded not guilty to a charge of unlawfully selling opium to Lee Hoy. After twenty minutes' deliberation a jury found Chung not guilty. He was not represented by counsel.

PRICE CUTTING HITS FARMERS

Comox Institute Writes Letter of Protest to Board of Trade

LADYSMITH, Oct. 12.—A fair turnout of members featured the monthly business session of the Board of Trade. A communication from the Comox Farmers' Institute was read, deploring the price cutting methods employed by certain chain and department stores throughout the country. It was stated that the practice of underselling on farm and creamery products worked a considerable hardship in the competitive markets to the primary producers of staples, such as butter and eggs, and the institute asked for the board's support in protesting the practice. In the discussion, the members present, although expressing sympathy with the institute, were unaware of any method of dealing with their predicament in an effective manner.

Attention of the board was drawn to a dangerous condition that existed on the Island Highway between Ladysmith and Chemainus. Speakers will be approached by the board for a series of public lectures during the winter.

TO CHANGE SYSTEM

It was reported a strong move was on foot in the district to inaugurate a consolidated school system for the whole area from Cassidy's and Bear Oyster down to Salsair, with Ladysmith as the centre. The board members were strongly of the opinion that the costs and the advantages or otherwise of the scheme should be thoroughly investigated and placed before the ratepayers in the Ladysmith school district, before any further action was taken. The City Council will be asked if it has any information on the subject and if it will analyze the whole proposal for the consideration of a public meeting of ratepayers if such action should be necessary.

It was pointed out that school costs were already extremely burdensome to local taxpayers, and if the move for consolidation meant an increase on these costs, local opinion would be organized for a sharp protest.

Before adjournment, J. A. Knight, who has worked as secretary to the board for the past three years, tendered his resignation, owing to pressure of other work. It was accepted with regret, and R. S. Wood was appointed to fill the office.

FOUND GUILTY ON NUISANCE CHARGE

Brechin Reduction Works Manager Convicted of Carrying On Offensive Trade

NANAIMO, Oct. 12.—After an all-day trial, in which many witnesses were heard for the Crown and defence, Robert Modell, of the Brechin Reduction Works, was convicted on a charge of carrying on an offensive trade without consent of the Board of Health, and was fined $50 and costs, or in default, thirty days in jail.

Modell said he would appeal. The information was laid by C. S. Munro, of the district health department, and according to the evidence, a summons had been issued after N. S. Modell and associates had been warned to desist. Robert Modell had acknowledged receipt of the communication on the telephone and promised to take the matter up, which he failed to do. The plant operated by Modell carried on a fish and meal reduction business.

"Stick it another round," whispered the second encouragingly. "Remember that the bloke in the other corner feels worse than you do."

"If he feels worse than I do," muttered the battered one, "I've won!"

Ever since I was quite small I have always longed to be one of those ladies who ride on a horse at a circus. You just stand on one foot on a horse and point the other out in the air and jump through hoops, not like the kind you roll, but with paper across to make it more difficult. But if your horse is intelligent he would probably wait just a second if you didn't come on to his back again as quick as you meant. The clothes are lovely and spangly, but a little tight in parts, only you probably could choose them different if you said you liked them more flowery. So far I have only ridden a donkey at Coney Island, but a lively one, and I stuck on.

Saltspring Has Harvest Festival

SALTSRING ISLAND, Oct. 12.—The harvest festival was held at St. Paul's Church, Ganges, last Sunday at 11 a.m., a crowded congregation being present. Rev. C. H. Popham preached and took the service, assisted by Rev. George Aitkens. The church was beautifully decorated for the festival with autumn flowers, fruit and grain by Mrs. Edward Walker, Mrs. Frank Croft and others. The anthem, "O Taste and See," was beautifully rendered by Mr. and Mrs. A. Scopes, Mrs. George Aitkens and Mr. F. Stacey. Mrs. V. C. Best was at the organ.

GARDEN AWARDS ARE PRESENTED

Meeting of Saanich Horticultural Society Specially Devoted to Children

SIDNEY, Oct. 12.—Garden enthusiasts, young and old, gathered at Wesley Hall recently for the regular monthly meeting of the North and South Saanich Horticultural Society. A short business meeting was held, Alex McDonald, vice-president, in the chair in the unavoidable absence of L. E. Taylor, president. The evening was then especially devoted to the children as being the occasion on which awards were presented to successful contestants in the children's garden contest annually sponsored by the society and directed by J. A. Nunn. W. J. Gibson, of the Department of Education, was present, and congratulated the children on their success in the garden competition. He emphasized that the chief point in any competition was not the reward but the playing of the game for the sake of the game. He was glad to see such a large number of interested boys and girls, and felt that the training gained in gardening was a considerable contribution to the education of youth.

W. J. Gibson then presented the Ros. Randolph Bruce Challenge Cup to Mary Butler as having gained highest points. Prizes were presented to the following competitors in rank of merit: Joan Butler, John Gorton, Doreen John, Kitty Hammond, Ronald France, Roddie Hammond, Baden Storey, Evelyn Snider and Cecil Lines.

Cups were given to leaders in the respective districts, as follows: Mary Butler, North Saanich; Evelyn Snider, Saanich; and Ronald France, Sidney.

W. J. Gibson then delivered a lecture on "Gardens I Have Known," illustrated with colored slides.

J. D. Nimmo moved the vote of thanks to the lecturer.

REFORMATORY BOYS RETURN

Fifty boys of the Reform School near Port Talbot, Wales, recently were permitted to discard the school uniform, don their own clothes and attend an evening concert during an Elsteddoff at Port Talbot. They were taken to the city and allowed to go where they pleased until time for the concert. All gathered for the musical event and went back to the reformatory without protest.

RUNS

Why blame stockings when YOU may be at fault?

Are you washing away the ELASTICITY that makes stockings wear?

"ANOTHER PAIR GONE!"—but don't blame the stockings. Do you know YOU may have caused those costly runs?

New stockings give under strain—stretch and spring right back again—because they are elastic.

But if you wash away the elasticity, the lifeless threads, instead of giving, break. The slightest little strain—then a wretched run!

With Lux, you preserve this precious elasticity. That is why this easy way of washing makes even your sheerest, loveliest stockings wear and WEAR.

The Lux Way to save the ELASTICITY that makes stockings wear and fit

Wash this 2-minute way!

1. One teaspoon of Lux for each pair.
2. Squeeze the gentle lukewarm Lux suds through stockings, rinse well.

Don't rub with cake soap. It destroys the elasticity. With Lux there is no rubbing.

Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali which weakens silk threads, fades colours. Lux has no harmful alkali. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

Don't use too-warm water—it fades colour. Dissolve Lux in hot water and cool to lukewarm for use.

With Lux, you preserve this precious elasticity. That is why this easy way of washing makes even your sheerest, loveliest stockings wear and WEAR.

Difficult to Get Facts Concerning Strife in Orient

All News Rigidly Censored and Adapted to Suit Opposing Sides—May Take Japan Years to Overcome Resistance

Proceeding to New York for a business conference with his principals, Joseph Yormark, manager for China of Joseph Schild & Son, Incorporated, fur merchants, was a passenger on the S. Empress of Canada arriving here Tuesday. The firm maintains two fur depots in China, one at Tientsin and the other at Harbin. It is Mr. Yormark's first visit to America in two years; and as his business necessitates the covering principally Northern China, which embraces Manchuria, he saw something of the events which culminated in the establishment of the new state of Manchukuo under the direction of Japan.

Of course, Mr. Yormark pointed out, the reports which originate from interested sources must be accepted by residents of the Orient for what they are worth. It is surprising, he said, how little of the real situation can be learned on the ground by the average person, the news being so closely censored and cleverly adapted, according to the desires of the various factions and nationalities involved.

GET THE NEWS

To get an intelligent view of what has really transpired is only possible in the foreign papers, and these do not arrive for weeks subsequent to actual happenings, their contents are already past history when received. How the foreign press representatives got their news and sifted the truth from the fiction would be interesting to know; but that they did in the face of great difficulties was a tribute to the news-gathering services covering the troubled areas of North China.

There were many rumors current in the parts of Manchuria he had recently visited of preparations for fighting on a larger scale than had yet been attempted, both by irregular forces and Japanese regulars. Mr. Yormark said. They inferred that the Japanese would put a stop to the guerrilla warfare prevailing for some time, while largely augmented armies of Chinese irregulars would make the task an extremely difficult one.

The Chinese irregulars were probably better organized and would be harder to exterminate than general belligerent troops, and Mr. Yormark was of the opinion that Japan will need an army of at least half a million men and several years of campaigning to attain its objective. As they had no hard and fast military regulations to hinder their operations, the ever-increasing number of irregular Chinese units, appearing and disappearing in a revolt which was spread over the entire area, will mean fighting for a long time. Just how many troops Japan now has in the area, nobody, with the possible exception of the war authority of that country, knows. "We see bodies of troops arriving, ostensibly to relieve other detachments, but we never see any troops returning to Japan."

DEATH PENALTY

Mr. Yormark cited an order which had been broadcast to the Chinese population of the troubled provinces, to the effect that anyone cutting down kaoling (corn which grows to a height of nine and ten feet) would be put to death. The vast kaoling had been an excellent cover for the guerrillas in their advances, enable them to make withdrawals in comparative safety when in retreat.

Mr. Yormark arrived in Mukden three days after the Japanese had occupied the city. The occupation had been well-planned and went off without a hitch. Just what had occurred, he was not able to state, but there were no signs of any conflict about the city; and if it had been for the continual movement of troops, through the streets, it might have been any other city of the Orient, with business going on as usual.

DID GOOD WORK

In Harbin during the recent floods, when the greater part of that city was inundated, and its inhabitants had to make a mad dash to get about in the streets and much suffering resulted, Mr. Yormark had great praise for the Japanese authorities for the manner in which the situation was handled. Their engineers made arrangements for pumping the land areas clear of water when the river waters subsided, while relief work was instituted without loss of time and anti-cholera serum provided for the inoculation of any and all within reach. This serum, provided an excellent preventive, but was only effective for several months at most.

After a brief stay in New York, Mr. Yormark will return to his headquarters in Tientsin for three years' stay. He left Victoria yesterday afternoon for Seattle and will travel East over the Chicago and Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railway.

RETICENT ABOUT LOSS OF VESSEL

Captain of Bright Fan Would Not Discuss Disaster—Will Tell Court of Inquiry

THE PAS, Oct. 12.—The feasibility and safety of the Hudson Bay route should not be affected by the recent sinking of the Bright Fan. The mishap was an act of God, declared Captain R. E. Oliver, commander of the grain steamer, upon his arrival here from Churchill today. Captain Oliver declined any statement regarding details aboard ship when the crash came, but members of the crew declared everything was in order. Lookouts were at their posts. Captain Oliver was reticent about the telling of the accident, stating he did not wish to commit himself until he reaches the East and the inquiry into the disaster is held. The crew of the lost Bright Fan arrived in The Pas today and will leave tonight for Winnipeg.

Elevator at Albany
Exporting Canadian Grain for the U.K.

ALBANY, N.Y., Oct. 12 (AP).—With the sailing today of the steamer Nalissa Moore, for Coblenz, Ireland, grain for foreign export began moving for the first time out of the new inland grain elevator at this Hudson River port. As the Nalissa Moore steamed down the river toward the sea with 40,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, the steamer Catherine Radcliffe, just in from London, was taking on the first of 120,000 bushels of grain. This cargo is for the United Kingdom, Antwerp and Rotterdam.

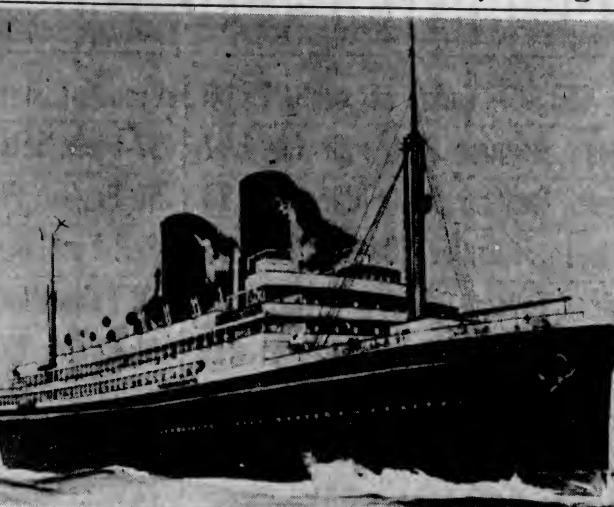

The grain has been shipped from the Canadian West by boat through the Great Lakes and the State Barge Canal.

VANCOUVER SHIPPING
VANCOUVER, Oct. 12 (CP).—The American freighter Atlanta City, B. W. Greer & Son, shifted today from Fraser River to Vancouver. The Argonaut Line S. S. Atlantic is due at Woodville on October 18 to load for Atlantic Coast, and will probably proceed to this port to pick up general, according to Mr. Greer.

The roster of Readson Smith Line ships due this month to T. A. Lee & Holway, Pacific Coast agents, looks like old times. Including S. Tacoma City, now at New Westminster, there are seven of the freighters due. They are S. Atlantic City, October 23; S. Leeds City, October 16; S. Jersey City, S. King City, S. Madras City and S. Quebec City.

Anglo-Canadian Shipping Co., Ltd., reports the Norwegian charter, S. Brand in port overnight to load for Antwerp and Rotterdam. The Norwegian S. Samuel Bakke, inaugurating the Cascade Line service from this port to Hamburg and Rotterdam, also arrived overnight to Anglo-Canadian.

Big Ship Took Out Capacity Cargo

SAILING for Australia via Hawaii, Fiji and New Zealand, the Canadian-Australasian steamship Niagara had her holds well filled with Canadian freight when she left the local dock yesterday for Honolulu, her first port of call. This is the first time in many voyages that the liner carried such a fine cargo, her being freight aboard for many ports in Australasia.

CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF IMMIGRATION FOR CANADA VISITS CITY

Paying a visit of inspection to Victoria, A. L. Jolic, chief commissioner of immigration, Ottawa, was in the city yesterday. He was accompanied by F. W. Taylor, divisional commander, Vancouver. The officials conferred with Robert Roff, in charge of immigration here. Before going to Ottawa, Mr. Jolic filed the post at Vancouver now held by Mr. Taylor, and is well known in Victoria.

"Many a tragedy," says a temperance speaker, "has been caused by two words: 'What's yours?' and 'I will.'"

Attempt to Land Opium Foiled by Customs Officers

FORTY-ONE tins of opium, valued at nearly $3,000, were discovered by customs officers in a false bottom of a trunk belonging to one of the passengers aboard the Blue Funnel liner Tantalus, which docked here yesterday morning.

Fung Tin Sui, alleged to be the owner of the trunk, was arrested while preparing to leave for Vancouver. He was taken before Police Magistrate Jay in the city police court and was remanded for one week on a charge of unlawful importation of drugs.

The drugs were found by Inspectors Joseph Dakers and F. Hall, of the Customs Department, while examining luggage of passengers arriving here from the Orient. Fung, after his arrest, was turned over to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Alfred Huxtable has charge of the case for the Customs Department.

Practical Results Of Trade Treaties Seen Aboard Liner

Canadian-Australasian Vessel Niagara Loaded Full With Products of Country When She Left Victoria Last Evening

Attributing the big cargo aboard the Niagara last evening, and which was going to Australasian ports, to the recently completed trade agreements entered into at Ottawa by Canada, New Zealand and Australia, officers of the liner are looking forward to many more such cargoes for "down under" as a result. They stated that there "seemed to be cargo aboard the ship for every port of consequence in Australasia."

Included in the liner's cargo for New Zealand and Australia were canned salmon, hard wheat, apples, onions, paper, as well as a wide variety of general products of the country.

SIR NORMAN KATER
For the voyage south the Niagara had 125 travelers in all classes, a number of whom boarded the ship here.

Among the more prominent passengers was Sir Norman Kater, Australian mining magnate and member of the Legislative Council of New South Wales, who is returning home following a visit to England and the United States. Sir Norman attended the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa as one of the trade experts with the Australian delegation.

TENNIS PLAYERS
Other passengers included C. S. Savage, head of the fruit export branch of the Australian Department of Agriculture, returning to Sydney following a tour of Canada studying market possibilities for Australian citrus fruits, and S. Stuart McKay, son of S. McKay, head of the Australian Sunshine Harvester Company. At Honolulu, the liner will embark Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Vines, Mr. and Mrs. William Allison, Mr. and Mrs. J. Van Ryn and Keith Gledhill. Messrs. Vines, Allison, Van Ryn and Gledhill are the first, second, third and seventh ranking tennis players of the United States, and are going to Australia for a series of matches at the invitation of the Australian Tennis Association.

Phillips Holmes and Dorothy Jordan,
Leading Stars in "70,000
Witnesses," at Capitol Today

A murder committed in full view of 70,000 persons... and not one of them knows how or by whom!
That amazing situation forms the story of "70,000 Witnesses," a film which opens at the Capitol Theatre
today, with Phillips Holmes, Dorothy Jordan, Charlie Ruggles, and Johnny Mack Brown in the leading roles.

No matter of tripping over his own feet, this, the spectators discover. For doctors who rush to his side find him out "cold." Rushed to a hospital, he dies. Then David Landau, in the role of a noted detective, and Holmes, Brown's teammate and buddy, get together in an effort to find out who was responsible for the murder, and why. Their quest leads to a startling climax.
Gay parties and thrilling action
in city night clubs will be seen today

an excellent team as the lovers in "Stranger in Town," will again be seen as the leading players in this picture.

EMPIRE Some of the smallest THEATRE articles needed in the hardest for a property department to find. This was well illustrated in "Disraeli," the Warner Brothers' Vitaphone production now
at the Empire Theatre, starring George Arliss. The period is 18th century, and one of the vital points in the picture concerns the receipt by Disraeli, the British Premier, of a code telegram from his confidential agent. Naturally, the telegram blank must be one of the 18th period.
It took a week's research before a photograph of a blank of this period
could be located in an old volume in the Los Angeles Public Library.

DOMINION Harold Lloyd's success as a producer
and comedian in
the movies had one of its beginnings in a terrifying accident which nearly killed him. In his early twenties the star of "Movie Crazy," with Constance Cummings, now showing at the Dominion Theatre, was playing in a series of comedies based on the peregrinations of a character known as "Lonesome Luke." Harold was Luke—a grotesque individual with shoes on the wrong feet and a tiny hat on the top of his head.

JOHN BARRYMORE IN
"STATE'S ATTORNEY"

Presenting a cross section of life
in vivid colors and clashing movement, a picture rich in human interest, drama, opens today at the Romano
Theatre. It is RKO-Radio's John Barrymore starring production,
"State's Attorney."

Heading a vast array of talent,
one of the most imposing casts ever assembled for a single film, are such favorites as Helen Twelvetrees, Bill Remond, William Boyd and Mary Duncan.

An absorbing tale of a man's love conflicting with his soaring ambitions, "State's Attorney" unfolds its swift action against the colorful background of a great city.
The central figure, played by Barrymore, is a brilliant, carefree attorney, who turns from defending the underworld to prosecuting it to further his own ambitions.

EMPIRE TO OFFER
"SELF-MADE LADY"

Douglas Newton, who wrote
"Sooney," the novel from which the George King talkie, "Self-Made Lady," is adapted, reveals some interesting facts about the origin of the story. The character of Sooney, the heroine, was based on a general servant who was engaged by the author's wife in their early married life, and her sister who rose to fame as a dress designer. These two real life characters gave the author foundation for Sooney's temperament and fight for fame.
"Self-Made Lady" comes to the Empire Theatre on Friday.

Harlem night clubs, last stand of the "hot-chin" variety of night life, form part of the background for the action of "Blonde Venus." Marlene Dietrich's latest starring pic-

Theatre on Saturday.

A dozen such places in New York's black belt still preserve the "hot" music, the wild dances, the uproarious tempo, that ten years ago was the rule in dance halls and super clubs throughout the country. Elsewhere, music of the slow, sweet type, has replaced the under-variety.

Best known of the current crop of Harlem supper clubs is the Cotton Club, where "Cab" Calloway, co-writer of "Minnie the Moocher," and other songs of the "mean-and-
low-down" type, and his orchestra preside. It is patronized by a wealthy clientele.

Police Drama at Columbia Today

One of the marvels of modern medical science is demonstrated on the screen of the Columbia Theatre
this week, where Universal's exciting metropolitan police drama,
"Radio Patrol," is playing.

It is the inhalator, advanced hospital apparatus which has been responsible in saving an inestimable number of human lives as a last minute resort. The inhalator, medical men state, is used for artificial respiration, forcing oxygen into lungs which have ceased to function, or which are in danger of ceasing respiration.

In "Radio Patrol," this scientific device plays a dramatic part in resolving the life of a baby born as its father, an intrepid radio car officer, sacrifices his life to duty in a desperate war against underworld criminals.

Robert Armstrong and Russell Hopkins enact the roles of the two rookie cops of the radio squad, with Lila Lee also featured in the appealing feminine lead as the girl
they both love.

Also on the same bill is "Horse
Feathers," featuring the Four Marx Brothers.

WILLIAM POWELL IS
STAR AT PLAYHOUSE

"The Road to Singapore," the first Warner Bros. starring vehicle for William Powell, now at the Playhouse Theatre, deals with the life of a man who, in an absolutely new way, the result is a picture of darkly enchanting similarity, romantic beauty and tense drama.

William Powell is probably the one man who could acceptably portray the role of Hugh Dawtry—a suavely magnetic man of the world dwelling in the jungle-haunted town of Kholo, in Ceylon—and quietly gloating over his ability to drink deep and to love lightly.

Phillips—played with passionate intensity by the amazing Doris Kenyon—comes to Kholo to marry a doctor she has known in England. She falls under the spell of Dawtry when her husband neglects her for his patients—and that is the story. Nights haunted by the drone of tom-toms—the sound of driving rain and the shadowy glow of native fires—add to the glamorous intoxication of the story.

Wheeler and Woolsey are also on the same bill in "The Cuckoos."

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE ONLY A SYMPTOM

You may undergo an examination for life insurance and are told that as your blood pressure is a trifle too high the examination will have to be postponed till some future day.

In the meantime, you begin to worry about the matter, perhaps lose some sleep and are in poor shape physically when the date the doctor set for the examination arrives.

If the examining physician has found your heart and kidneys to be sound, as is likely the case, or he would not have you return, the chances are good that the high blood pressure is due to some temporary condition, which may or may not have passed away by the day of the second examination.

If your blood is not near the normal point, the physician will likely suggest that you see your own physician and perhaps also your dentist and report again in a few weeks or a few months. Your application for insurance will not be refused, but will be held over to give an opportunity to locate the possible cause of your high blood pressure.

In other words, unless the high
blood pressure is due to the blood
vessels being hard, it is only a

In other words, unless the high
blood pressure is due to the blood
vessels being hard, it is only a

symptom of some condition in your body that needs to be corrected.
The pressure of the blood is high
in order to overcome some condition, just as your temperature rises, your heart beats faster, and your lungs breathe more rapidly when any ailment is attacking the body.

The first rule in medicine in trying to find a cause for any condition is to "look for the commonest cause or causes." Thus, bad teeth, bad tonsils, chronic gall bladder trouble, chronic appendicitis or sluggishness of the large bowel, are immediately suspected and a thorough examination made.

Now, although the high blood pressure helps the body while these conditions exist, nevertheless, this continued high blood pressure, just like a continued rapid heart beat,

is bound to be "wearing" on the walls of the blood vessels, and lead to trouble.

In addition to having any cause removed, the patient should get plenty of rest, physical and mental,
limit tea, coffee, and tobacco, alcohol, and meat, and should rest after each meal.

Refuse to Join Island Body as Ordered by Porter and Hardwick

Victoria's basketball teams will be governed by the newly formed Southern Island Association and will not join the Vancouver Island body as ordered by N. Porter, president of the provincial association, and Walter Hardwick, secretary of the same body, was the statement issued by President Jack Taylor, of the Victoria and District League yesterday. The local body made this statement after hearing the outcome of the reconvened meeting of the Island body at Nanaimo over the weekend.

Porter and Hardwick, who both hail from the Mainland, attended the Up-Island meeting and made the recommendation that all Island teams wishing to affiliate with the British Columbia body would have to do so through the Vancouver Island association. Taylor stated that this move was against the minutes passed at the annual meeting and cannot be changed except at a general meeting or by the consent of the mover and seconder.

TO TAKE ACTION
Taylor further said that he was instructed to organize a southern association on the Island and therefore Victoria will refuse to join the Island body and will take immediate action against the ruling of Porter and Hardwick.

Taylor has completed organization of the southern association, with Bob Whyte as president. Other officers follow: Vice-president, Jack Taylor; secretary-treasurer, Gordon Woodridge; executive, Frank Shandley (Victoria and District Basketball League); Percy Reeves (Saanich and Suburban League); and Fred Harding (Sunday School League).

At the meeting of the Island group in Nanaimo the following officers were elected: President, T. Lewis, Nanaimo; vice-president, J. Sutton, Courtenay; and secretary-treasurer, C. Mulholland, Nanaimo.

Maxie Rosenbloom, recognized in New York State as light-heavyweight champion, foyed with Jack Redman, a lone, thin negro from South Bend, Ind., in a ten-round semi-final fight after the main bout, and easily won the decision. Maxie's opponent was not involved, as he weighed 181 1/2, Redman 184.

PROPOSE CLASS FOR SWIMMING

Students Can Learn in Six Lessons, School Board Is Informed

A meeting of the city school principals will be called to consider a proposal that students be given swimming tuition at a cost of 90c for six lessons, the fees to be paid by the parents.

This was decided at last night's meeting of the City School Board, when a proposal was submitted by the management of the Crystal Garden.

The management stated that children could be taught to swim in six lessons, and that in view of the number of drowning fatalities last summer, it might be an advisable thing to give students swimming instruction.

George H. Deane, municipal inspector, said that if such classes were organized by the school board, it would be a grave responsibility and he felt that careful consideration should be given the matter.

On the suggestion of Trustee B. Monk, the matter was referred to the inspector and the principals for consideration.

WORLD PEACE PLEA VOICED

Rev. Dr. Gerald Switzer Declares Glamour of War Should Be Eliminated

Take the swagger and the glamour out of war and paint it as it really is, and a decided step will be made in the direction of peace, said Rev. Dr. Gerald Switzer, pastor of the Oak Bay United Church, in addressing the Men's Brotherhood of Fairfield United Church, last evening. He did not want to take away from the valor of the men who gave their lives in the war, but he said lasting peace could never be attained by war preparations.

In a graphic picture he told the story of the tremendous drive made by the Germans to defeat the French at Verdun. On Christmas Day, 1914, he had visited the battlefield and pictured the crosses marking the graves of the opposing forces which were there. As far as the eye could see, these crosses marked the loss of 312,000 French soldiers and 600,000 German soldiers. As he witnessed this, the speaker said he was impressed with the idea that lasting peace could not be attained by such sacrifice.

HOORRORS OF WAR
The speaker introduced figures to show that war cost tremendously. He felt that the statement was true that had been made, that if man did not end war, war would end mankind. Under new conditions war might become devastating to an extent never dreamed of before. He pictured a flotilla of ships leaving Europe and dropping bombs on London, which would cause the death of every person there.

Public opinion, Dr. Switzer said, must be awakened with regard to the situation. The public conscience must be aroused, and the children taught to abhor war. Too many men were thinking of their own little section of the globe instead of the world as a whole.

SAVING BY PEACE
Referring to the cost of war, Dr. Switzer said that it had been stated that the United States might cancel the war debts of other nations on condition that these countries would reduce their armaments by one-half, and that the reduction which would be possible in the American armaments in consequence, would leave the United States a gainer over the loss of the debts.

The meeting of the Men's Brotherhood marked the beginning of the season's programme. President A. Schroeder presided. Pianoforte selections were given by Major Harry Watt, who also played the accompaniment for vocal selections. The latter included duets by James Dinsmore and S. Honeychurch, and quartettes by these two supplemented by G. McEwan and W. G. Richardson.

Important Autumn Handicap Won by Ten-to-One Shot

D. S. Kennedy's Four-Year-Old Filly Captures $10,000 Race by Three Lengths—Chelmarsh Finishes Second and Sandwich Third—King and Queen Attend

NEWMARKET, England, Oct. 12 (AP and CP).—Carrying nearly top weight of 161 pounds, D. S. Kennedy's good four-year-old filly Nitsichin won the Cesarewitch Stakes, great Autumn handicap, over the two-and-a-quarter-mile line, three tenths in front of A. J. Fuston's five-year-old Chelmarsh, who carried only ninety-two pounds, and two lengths back in third place was Lord Rosebery's Sandwich, top weight with 139 pounds.

Twenty-six of the finest long-distance handicap performers of the English turf ran in the renewal of the Newmarket feature, which was first run in 1839 and is worth approximately $10,000. Millions of dollars in sweepstakes depended on the result.

Betting was 10 to 1 against Nitsichin, who was ridden by the veteran jockey Harry Wragg. Chelmarsh, a daughter of Achid out of Latium, was second in the Newbury Autumn Cup a few weeks ago and was winner of the rich Irish Oaks at the Curragh a year ago.

WEATHER IDEAL
The race was run in bright sunshine. Claymore took a lead after the field got under way with Chelmarsh, Rol de Paris, West Wicklow, Sandwith and Son of Mint well up. Blue Vision and Nitsichin, who galloped the first two miles.

A quarter of a mile from the finish Chelmarsh raced into the lead, followed by Rol de Paris, Claymore, Sandwith and Nitsichin, who the latter soon forged into second place and passed Chelmarsh on the rise near the finish to go ahead and win a good race easily. Chelmarsh easily held second place but Sandwith had a struggle to hold third place. Rol de Paris was fourth, Blandearne fifth, Sandals sixth. Foreway seventh, Blue Vision eighth, Bolder ninth and Gainslaw tenth. Popote finishing last.

The winner's time was 3 mins. 51 2-5 secs. The King and Queen, with the Princess Royal, her husband, the Earl of Harwich, were among the large crowd. Nitsichin's owner, Mr. Kennedy, is a London stockbroker.

DRIVE RESULTS BREAK RECORD

Present Y.M.C.A. Membership Campaign Most Successful

The most successful membership drive in the history of the Y.M.C.A. terminated last night with a total enrollment of 155 new members and a cash gain of $1,737.

This campaign was not primarily a drive for funds, but rather an endeavor to increase the membership and to enable more citizens to avail themselves of the facilities of the Y.M.C.A.

In his address to the workers, at a banquet given in their honor last night, E. D. Leclaire, manager of the campaign, expressed the appreciation of the membership committee for the way in which the different groups had labored to make the campaign a success.

He stated that the results this year are far ahead of those for 1931, and if conditions continue to improve, there is no reason why 1933 should not be a banner year in the association's history.

H. B. Witter, president of the board of directors, also voiced the appreciation of that board for the work done.

A membership committee, to arrange the membership programme for the coming year, was elected, and will consist of R. J. C. Smith (chairman), Warren Martin, S. Hill, F. Partington, G. Fields, N. Peterson, J. V. Johnson, B. I. Johnson, J. Crann and F. Crowhurst.

APPRENTICESHIP PLAN ENDORSED
Victoria School Board Committee Will Ascertain Views of Employers of Labor

A special committee was appointed at last night's school board meeting to investigate the merits and demerits of the state-aided apprenticeship system proposed by Major Ian St. Clair.

Formation of the committee was suggested by Trustee P. E. George and concurred in by Lieut.-Col. T. B. Monk. Others of the school board expressed their approval of the scheme.

The committee named by Chairman George Jay comprises the following: Trustee George, Trustee Monk and Trustee J. M. Campbell. The committee will interview employers of labor and others interested in the apprenticeship system. The board was informed that the Apprenticeship Association of Vancouver had endorsed the proposal.

POLICE DESTROY SLOT MACHINES
Fourteen candy vending machines, seized by city police officers early this year and confiscated after persons charged with their operation had been convicted and fined, were destroyed yesterday. It was learned at police headquarters.

Although the police would not say where the machines had been destroyed, they intimated they were now many fathoms down in the sea, and it is presumed they were dumped overboard from city garbage scows.

The seizure of the machines caused a flutter of interest in the business section of the city at the time. The devices were owned by an American candy company, and were declared illegal when evidence was produced in court that the tokens had been used as legal tender for the purchase of goods.

Range Narrow in Quiet Trading on Eastern Exchanges

MONTREAL, Oct. 12 (CP).—Trading was quiet on the Montreal Stock Exchange today, with price changes confined for the most part to fractions. Lack of domestic business news and the holiday in New York did not encourage the public to participate in the market, and trading was largely professional. Sales totaled slightly more than 10,000 shares, half of yesterday's turnover.

Nickel closed 1-2 higher at 9-1/2. Canadian Pacific at 16, and Canadian National at 15-1/2, were unchanged. B.C. Packers at 1-1/2, was 1-4 lower.

Sales totaled 10,149 shares, bonds $42,900.

UNEXCITED COURSE
TORONTO, Oct. 12 (CP).—Left to itself, the Toronto Stock Exchange pursued a steady and unexcited course today while Wall Street celebrated Columbus Day. Transactions were put through within a very narrow price range, and the volume was very small with the exception of the trade in British American Oil, which made up 80 per cent of the business in the curb section. Most of the leaders were slightly up at the close.

More than 5,000 shares in B.A. Oil changed hands within a range of 3-8, the close being 8-1/4, unchanged. The company is expected to announce a new debenture issue within a few days to pay for expansion already carried out.

The other oil stocks were steady and inactive. The interlisted stocks fluctuated narrowly, and most of them were up slightly at the close. C.P.R. at 16-1/8, Ford "A" at 8-3/8, unchanged; International Nickel at 9-3/4, up 1/4, and Brazilian at 9-3/4, unchanged.

STANDARD STOCK EXCHANGE
TORONTO, Oct. 12 (CP).—Teeh Hughes took the play from the rest of the mining list on the Standard Exchange today, invigorated by the discovery of richer gold at the fourth level of the mine. More than 12,000 shares were traded, and the price moved up from 3-1/2 to close at 3-3/4, a gain of 1/8.

During the morning the stock sold at 3-1/2. Teeh has been under selling pressure for many months and the change of trend cheered the rest of the list, especially the gold issues, which closed firm. Some closed at 12-00 in light trade, Hollinger at 5-05, up 5, and Howey at 6-00, up 5. B.C. Pioneer, which had a good run in the last few sessions, surrendered some of its gains to close at 4-55, down 8. McLeod River lost 7-8, but the turnover was very light.

There was very little life in the base metal stocks, Nickel closing at 9-1/2, up 1/2, and Noranda at 18-70, down 5. Oil issues had a good tone. Homebased, in active trade, advanced to 35, up 2-1/2. Ajax Oil moved up to 78, and Acme Oil was 1-2 better.

WINNIPEG HAS DULL SEASON

Wheat Traders Mark Time as American Markets Take Holiday

WINNIPEG, Oct. 12 (CP).—Closed markets in the United States pared operations on the Grain Exchange here, today, to a minimum. Wheat and wheat market time in an extremely dull season to close fractionally lower to unchanged. No export of any account was in evidence and Liverpool closed easier.

October closed 48 1-4, November at 48, December at 50 1-4, and May at 55 1-8.

Cash interest in wheat was very light and no sales of any account were reported. Actual sales of coarse grains, too, were light, and consisted of odd lots of No. 2 C.W. and mixed feed oats.

IF I WERE YOU

By P. G. Wodehouse

CHAPTER XXII

"Me own relations doing the dirty on me!" Syd muttered, appalled. He had always known that people in society were a bit thick, but he had never suspected such thickness as this.

"But they don't feel they are your relations," Tony said. "Sir Herbert and Lady Lydia and Freddie think I am the real Lord Drottwich."

Syd snorted loudly and bitterly. "Oh, they do, do they?"

"You can't blame them, really. A second snort from Syd seemed to indicate that he found it perfectly possible to blame them. He strode forcefully up and down the room. His eyes were gleaming, and his ears had turned a vivid pink.

"Perhaps they think I won't make a good ear?"

"I'm afraid they have got that idea."

Syd snorted for the third time, and this snort eclipsed in violence and volume the previous snorts, establishing a new record for other snorters to shoot at. He was also inordinately enough to raise his hand and bring it down with impressive force on his thigh—a blunder which he was the first to recognize. A sharp howl proceeded from him, and for a moment he stood rubbing the spot in manifest agony.

Then he straightened himself and glared belligerently.

"Oh!" he said. "Well, I'll show them. I'll show the whole pack of them."

"I take it, then," said Tony, "that the offer you started to make to me is cold?"

"As cold as a stepmother's kiss," replied Syd vehemently, rising to unusual heights of imagery. He brooded. "Imagine me lettin' them lead me up the garden like that! Me that always thought I'd an 'ead on me!"

He sniffed venomously, and for an instant it seemed as if the acoustics of the shop had produced an echo. Then it became apparent that this was not one snort, but two snorts.

The second had proceeded from Ma Price, who had just come into the room.

Her visit to the chapel had plainly done little or nothing to restore tranquillity to Ma Price. Her demeanor, as she entered the shop, was still that of a woman with much on her mind, and heavy stuff, at that. The snort had been an overwrought snort. She moved like one weighted down by a burden.

Syd regarded her with a distrustful eye. Many a time during the past two weeks he had felt a nostalgic yearning for the sight of this woman, but now that they had come together again he found himself unable to bestow upon her more than a perfunctory attention. The thought of his wrongs was occupying him to the exclusion of everything else.

"Ulo, Ma," he said absently.

Ma Price, too, seemed to be prevented by the pressure of other emotions from doing justice to this meeting. She, like Syd, had looked forward to it with wistful eagerness, but she exhibited none of the animation that might have been expected. If Syd had been in the frame of mind to observe her closely, he might have detected in her manner a curious embarrassment, and was avoiding his eye.

"Ulo, Syd," she said.

"I've got a headache," said Syd.

"Only it's at the other end," said Syd.

"Sir Herbert and Lady Lydia went to look for you, Mrs. Price," said Ma Price.

Ma Price nodded.

"I seen 'em. I just bin talking to them."

Syd exploded shrilly.

"Oh, you 'ave 'ave you? Well, I'm looking forward to a chance of talking to them myself." His voice rose, and Ma Price, wincing, pressed a protesting hand to her forehead.

"I've something to say to those two."

"I'll give them a piece of my mind. I'll show 'em Sir Herbert Bloomington Bassington where he gets off."

"Don't shout, dearie," pleaded Ma Price plaintively. "I've got such a headache. Polly, my dear, I'm dyin' for a cup of tea."

Thrilled!

How you thrilled in the certainty of your lasting loveliness—heightened by the clinging, velvet-texture of Pompian Beauty Powder.

As his eyes caressed you, how thrilling to know that a touch of Pompian Rouge had kept for you the girlish flush he loved. Be sure always! Use Pompian. You may pay more for beauty preparations but you cannot buy better than :

"I'll go upstairs and make you some."

"In short," said Tony, "Polly will put the kettle on." He went with her to the Ladies' Department door. "I'll come and help. We'll toast muffins together . . . Tony and Polly!"

She slid her hand into his, and they went out. Syd could hear Tony's voice raised in song as he passed through the Ladies' Department and climbed the stairs beyond, which led to the family's living quarters. He did not like it. At such a moment anything in the nature of singing and rejoicing seemed to him out of place and lacking in taste.

And then his mind came back to a matter of greater urgency. He felt a sense of outrage.

"What," he inquired, "did bloomin' Lydia and blasted 'Erbert want to see you about?"

Thus shockingly did he allude to an honored baronet and the daughter of a hundred earls. But he was deeply moved. If this sinister pair had been seeking Ma Price out, it could have been only with one object.

Ma Price verified his suspicions. "They were arguin' with me, dearie. Telling me not to give evidence."

"That was all, was it?" Syd's voice shook. "Merely 'tamperin' with me star witness on the eve of the trial? Cool! They're a nice lot. As 'igh-principled a brace of snakes in the grass as you'd want to meet in a month of Sundays! I'm not sure I couldn't 'ave them sent to the jug for that."

"Sir 'Erbert seems to feel the 'ole thing very deep, dear."

"I'll feel it deeper by the time I've got through with 'em."

"E don't seem to think you're quite suited for your exalted position."

"Ho! And why not?" Syd pierced her with a cross-examining countenance. "Look 'ere, what's your mental picture of an earl?"

Ma Price was bewildered.

"I dunno," she said helplessly.

"You imagine 'e's an 'ell of a joser, don't you—going to concerts with one hand and ridin' mustangs with the other. Well, you're wrong, see? Seventy per cent of 'em never attended a concert in their lives. And eighty-five . . . I mean, one or two . . . can't ride."

"Well, you know, I suppose," said Ma Price, doubtfully.

"Certainly I know. I've been studyin' the question. And all this 'ose they've been puttin' over on me is so much applesauce. That's straight. I've 'ad it from an expert."

Ma Price was groping on the shelf below the shaving mirror.

"Oh, dear!" she moaned. "Me 'ead's fairly splittin'. Where's that spray of eau de cologne you used to keep 'ere?"

"I tell you, I'll make as good an earl as any of 'em."

Ma Price suspended her quest to gaze at him mournfully.

"But will you be 'appy, dearie?"

"Of course I'll be 'appy."

Ma Price sighed.

"You used to be 'appy once. In this very shop. 'Ow long ago it seems now, and it's only two weeks. I can't find that spray."

"Look in the top shelf."

"Remember the teas we used to 'ave? What a boy you were for the sausage and mashed!" She sighed again. "If you're goin' to be an earl, I won't be able to cook you no more sausage and mashed."

This plainly shook Syd. For an instant, he definitely weakened. Then he was firm again.

"Life," he said Napoleonicly, "ain't all sausage and mashed. There's me destiny to be considered."

"Oh, dear, oh dear, oh dear!"

"It's no use cryin' over spilt milk. What is to be will be."

"You used to be so 'appy once, 'avin' in this shop."

She snarled wretchedly, and Syd, who had seen the street door open, uttered a warning "Oy!" Violet Waddington had returned from her shopping, and had come, cold and haughty, to interview Tony on the subject of his recent decision. Outwardly cool and unmoved, she was boiling inwardly with an indignation almost as righteous as Syd's.

"Oh!" she said, looking from one to the other. "I wanted to see . . . well, Mr. Price, I suppose I ought to say."

Syd thought her choice of names very proper. Mr. Price Tony was, and Ma Price he was jolly well always going to be. He jerked his thumb over his shoulder.

"Prime upstairs," he said crisply. "Gettin' tea with Polly Brown."

Violet's lips tightened.

"How very domestic!" She uttered a sound which was half an exclamation and half a titter. "Well, it would be cruel to interrupt at such a moment, wouldn't it? Perhaps you will tell him I came back, and suggest that he writes to me. He will understand."

"Oh, 'ere it is, at last," said Ma Price suddenly. She had found the missing spray.

"It's just about a little matter we were discussing when I left," explained Violet. "I want to know what he has decided."

"I'll go and tell him you're 'ere."

"Oh, don't trouble."

"No trouble. And I could do with a cup of tea myself."

"Thank you so much."

"Pleasure's mine," said Syd courteously. "Toodlee-oo . . . I mean, see you later."

He withdrew. And Ma Price, who was busy with the spray, felt that something in the nature of an apology was in order.

"You'll excuse me doing this, miss, won't you?" she said, casting for a moment to press the trigger. "I've got a headache."

"I should think everybody has this afternoon," said Violet. "I hope I didn't interrupt a private conversation?"

"Oh, no, miss. We was just talkin'." Syd's act on bein' an earl, and I was tryin' to make him see it wouldn't do."

Violet stared. These, she felt, were deep waters.

"But that's very odd, isn't it?"

"Odd, miss?"

"Well, considering you're the principal witness to prove that he is an earl . . ."

Then he straightened himself and glared belligerently.

"Oh!" he said. "Well, I'll show them. I'll show the whole pack of them."

"I take it, then," said Tony, "that the offer you started to make to me is cold?"

"As cold as a stepmother's kiss," replied Syd vehemently, rising to unusual heights of imagery. He brooded. "Imagine me lettin' them lead me up the garden like that! Me that always thought I'd an 'ead on me!"

He sniffed venomously, and for an instant it seemed as if the acoustics of the shop had produced an echo. Then it became apparent that this was not one snort, but two snorts.

The second had proceeded from Ma Price, who had just come into the room.

Her visit to the chapel had plainly done little or nothing to restore tranquillity to Ma Price. Her demeanor, as she entered the shop, was still that of a woman with much on her mind, and heavy stuff, at that. The snort had been an overwrought snort. She moved like one weighted down by a burden.

Syd regarded her with a distrustful eye. Many a time during the past two weeks he had felt a nostalgic yearning for the sight of this woman, but now that they had come together again he found himself unable to bestow upon her more than a perfunctory attention. The thought of his wrongs was occupying him to the exclusion of everything else.

"Ulo, Ma," he said absently.

Ma Price, too, seemed to be prevented by the pressure of other emotions from doing justice to this meeting. She, like Syd, had looked forward to it with wistful eagerness, but she exhibited none of the animation that might have been expected. If Syd had been in the frame of mind to observe her closely, he might have detected in her manner a curious embarrassment, and was avoiding his eye.

"Ulo, Syd," she said.

"I've got a headache," said Syd.

"Only it's at the other end," said Syd.

"Sir Herbert and Lady Lydia went to look for you, Mrs. Price," said Ma Price.

Ma Price nodded.

"I seen 'em. I just bin talking to them."

Syd exploded shrilly.

"Oh, you 'ave 'ave you? Well, I'm looking forward to a chance of talking to them myself." His voice rose, and Ma Price, wincing, pressed a protesting hand to her forehead.

"I've something to say to those two."

"I'll give them a piece of my mind. I'll show 'em Sir Herbert Bloomington Bassington where he gets off."

"Don't shout, dearie," pleaded Ma Price plaintively. "I've got such a headache. Polly, my dear, I'm dyin' for a cup of tea."

Then he straightened himself and glared belligerently.

"Oh!" he said. "Well, I'll show them. I'll show the whole pack of them."
